TELLS OF HIS SAFE ARRIVAL

George J. Jordan, of This City, is With U. S. Marines in France.

WORD IS RECEIVED FROM CAPT. POWELL

Young Man Graduated from Fort Wayne High School in 1910.

Fort Wayne has one representative, at least, who is now, or soon will be engaged, actively, in the great struggle that is being waged across the sea. He is George J. Jordan, son of

GEORGE J. JORDAN.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Jordan, of 501 Fourth street, and a member of the United States Marine corps, which was a part of the first division of soldiers to be sent to France from this country. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan received notice from Captain Ross E. Powell, of the United States Marine corps, now in charge of the bureau of marines, that their son had safely arrived in France. The exact point of course was not divulged. The letter from Captain Powell reads as follows:

"You will be interested in knowing that your son has crossed the ocean safely, and is now in France. You will no doubt be pleased to put the enclosed card in your window. It will distinguish your home from others in the neighborhood. It means that a man in your house has given his all to his country."

CAPT. ROSS E. POWELL.

The card referred to in the letter of Captain Powell is a poster giving the information that an inmate of the house in which it is displayed is a part of the United States forces in France. The card is now proudly placed in the window of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan's home.

George J. Jordan has lived in Fort Wayne all his life. He graduated from the Fort Wayne high school in 1910, and then attended Purdue university, graduating from that institution in the class of 1914, civil engineering. He was employed by the government as an engineer after his graduation. He was always intensely interested in military affairs. At the outbreak of the Mexican trouble, he went to the border as a member of the Illinois Engineers, Company A. He enlisted June 22, 1916, in Chicago and was given his honorable discharge October 17, 1916. After his discharge from the Illinois engineers, he was employed by the government on an engineering job at El Paso, Texas. He enlisted in the marine corps in South Carolina, and went in training at Paris Island. Three weeks ago his family received a letter from him stating that he was on board ship, bound for France. This was the last word from the young marine until the letter from the marine bureau announcing his safe arrival at the front.

Jordan is 27 years of age. He has been a resident of Fort Wayne all his life, excepting the time spent at school and that spent in active service of his country on the Mexican border. He has many warm friends in this city, who will watch with interest the career of the young marine, who has given his all to "help make the world safe for democracy."

DARK EVENING AID TO AUTO THIEVES

Two automobiles were moved away into the covering shelter of blackness during Monday evening, which was marked by a cloudy sky. One car was taken from a garage and the other from the street curbing near the show grounds.

Mike Cusoff, grocer, 1802 Gay street, reported to the police Tuesday that his auto delivery car had been taken from his garage sometime Monday night. Bert Hatcher left his small machine stand near the show grounds on South Calhoun street Monday evening. Later the car was gone.

The police are following many clues but have made no arrests as yet and have not located either of the stolen machines.

RALPH LOSE ACCEPTED FOR MOSQUITO FLEET

Fort Wayne Young Man Enters Naval Coast Defense Service.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lose, 213 Douglas avenue, have received a telegram from their son, Ralph D. Lose, telling of his acceptance in the mosquito fleet of the naval coast defense. He left this city last Wednesday for Newport, R. I., where he was accepted.

For three months last summer he served on the Mexican border with Battery B, of the Indiana guard, which was at that time composed of students of Purdue university. He has just completed his second year at the university and applied for the officers' reserve corps. He was accepted but not called because of the fact that other men are being sought. He is just twenty-one years of age.

Summary of the Day's War News

The Russian armies are continuing their vigorous offensive in eastern Galicia and other groups of the empire's vast forces are apparently ready to spring into activity at various points along the 800 mile front. Everything appears to be running smoothly with the military machine, or at least it seems in far more effective shape than even the rosiest forecasts indicated.

Meanwhile, Russian governmental affairs, which appeared to have been going well for some time past, are again ruffled by a cabinet disagreement. Four ministers, including Finance Minister Shingareff, have resigned because of objections to the policy decided upon by the other ministers regarding affairs in the Ukraine which, like Finland, has desires for an independent government. A meeting of the council of ministers has been called to solve the crisis and it is hoped the resignations will be withdrawn.

Notwithstanding the change in the German chancellorship and before any declaration of policy has been made by the new occupant of the post, Dr. Goebbels, reichstag revolt against existing conditions appears to be going on unchecked. The majority in favor of a declaration of peace terms, it is declared, will present their resolution on Thursday, the day the new chancellor is scheduled to speak, and will demand that he accept the declaration in principle before they agree to co-operate with him.

The early days of the war, when German shipping was being combed up on the seven seas by the British fleet, are recalled by today's announcement from London of the capture of four German submarines by British destroyers. The captures were effected in the North sea. None of the quartet was a large vessel, the average of the four being about 1,300 tons. They were accompanied by two other German steamers. All made for shore when signalled and the two that finally reached the Dutch coast were badly damaged by gun fire.

An important success has been won by the French in the Verdun region. As the result of an attack last night all the positions west of hill 304 which remained in German hands after the attack of June 29 and 30, were recovered. German prisoners to a number not yet ascertained by the French high command, were taken in the action. In the Champagne the Germans made another attack last night in an attempt to retake their lost observation positions at the Teton height. General Petain's troops repulsed the assaulting forces.

WERE SOL ESURVIVORS.

An Atlantic Port, July 17.—A gunboat and a fireman who said they were the only survivors of the British steamer Daley, which they reported was sunk May 29 by a German U-boat were picked up May 30 in a life boat by a British ship which arrived here today. It was reported by officers. The rescue was made, the officers said, on a trip to England. The Daley was a vessel of 3,628 tons gross.

The weekly output of British machine guns during 1915-16 was more than fourteen times what it was during 1914-15.

Millions of Dollars of Red Cross Dividends Are Held Out.

HAVE BEEN VOTED BY STOCKHOLDERS

Red Cross Needs the Money and Makes Appeal for Early Payment.

New York, July 17.—The fact that millions of dollars in Red Cross dividends declared by corporations have not been paid over to the organization was made known in an appeal to the shareholders in such corporations issued here today by the American Red Cross war finance committee to do their part in helping the "who in the misery and sadness of the firing line look to us for aid."

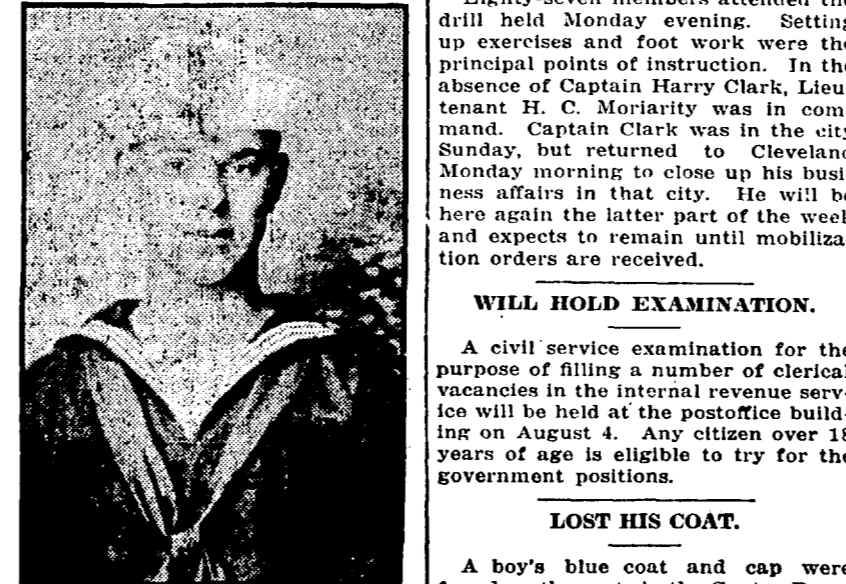

The French prepared for many wounded for the spring offensive, it is pointed out, "and to prepare for our wounded the Red Cross must avail itself of every dollar it can get."

"For want of something better, newspapers have been used to tie up the wounds of soldiers abroad. When our boys are wounded—and surely they will be—we are going to let them suffer still more through our neglect? To withhold a Red Cross dividend means withholding relief from our wounded."

WHO CARRIED AWAY PART OF SHOW TENT?

Police are striving to fathom the mystery of the missing canvas. A part of the Chautauqua tent is lacking, it was noticed Tuesday, when the tent was being put up. It is not known whether the section of tent was stolen in Fort Wayne or while the big canvas was en route to the city or whether the top section has been lost by faulty packing.

BAKER DENIES TAMPERING.

Chicago, July 17.—Denial of alleged tampering charges was made by J. Franklin Baker, third baseman with the New York Americans, in letters to President Johnson, of the American league. Baker said that instead of attempting to induce Allen Sorhonen, of the St. Louis club, to jump his contract, he had strongly urged the young pitcher to remain with St. Louis. Baker, failing to reply to President Johnson's first letter, had been given twenty-four hours in which to answer the charges.

Learn Some French Today

ELEVENTH LESSON PREPARED BY MME. ARCHINARD

Where is the first aid station?
Où se trouve le poste de secours?
Oo suh troov luh post duh suhcoor?

Do the field ambulances go that far?
Les ambulances vont-elles jusque là?
Layr anbulansey vont-ell jüs-kuh-lä?

What is your army corps?
De quel corps d'armée êtes-vous?
Duh kell core darmay et voo?

Where did the Zeppelin fall?
Où est tombé le Zeppelin?
Oo ay tonbä luh Zeppelin?

In these lessons the English sentence appears in the first line, the French equivalent in the second and the pronunciation in the third line. In the pronunciation key, straight lines over the letters A and U denote the long sound, as in "hate" and "hüte"; curved lines over these letters denote the short sound, as in "hat" and "hüt"; two dots over the U indicate a sound somewhat like the German "ue," which Americans may approach by pronouncing long U and long E at the same time. Cut out these lessons and paste them in your note book. The purpose here is merely to give the young men who may serve with the army in France such a knowledge of French as will enable them to make some sort of friendly intercourse with French people in the field. No attempt is made to teach the grammar of the language.

Leather Punishing Contest Taken by Essick's Tossers

Hitting Nearly Even But Black Sox Make Their Blows Count.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 17.—Fort Wayne and Grand Rapids got together yesterday and decided to make the day one on which all players could fatten batting averages. Everybody took advantage of the opportunity but the Black Sox, who probably don't need it. He was up five times and didn't hit once. Harry Smith, of the Chiefs, who tops that club, hit only once out of five times up. Clockson, of the same club, was the hitting demon of the day, getting a home run over the left wall which was one of the hardest blows ever seen on the local lot.

When it was all over a perusal of the box score brought to light the fact that the Black Sox had defeated the Chiefs 4 to 4, although they had but two more safe blows than the Chiefs. Five errors on the part of Vandagriff's employees put the Fritz on any chances they had of winning. King Rain halted the proceedings for about twenty minutes in the seventh inning.

Scoring started in earnest in the first inning when the locals chalked up two runs. Michtell, the first man up, singled and completed the circuit on a wild heave by Williams. Carey, who had hit, went to second on the throw and stole third immediately after. Mathes went out but Edgington tripled and Carey went across for the second run.

In the first of the third the visitors came through with five singles, and these together with a fielder's choice gave them three runs and the lead. They held the lead just long enough for the clubs to change and then the score was tied by means of a pair of singles, an out, and a couple of choice errors handed out by the Chiefs.

Not a choice happened in the third and fourth rounds, nor in the first half of the fifth. In the last of this round Edgington was passed, advanced on Alcock's out, went further on a wild heave and scored on an error by Smith. Not an error contributed to Brant's run in the sixth, although he was walked to start. Three singles followed which served to put him across. Alcock and Miller went around in the seventh on a hit by the former, a double by the latter, and another double by Devermer. The last run was made in the eighth when Carey beat out an infield scratch, took second on Mathes' out and registered on Alcock's triple.

Glockson closed the scoring when he met the horsehide for the blow which was considered one of the longest and hardest ever made in inland park. It sailed high above the left field fence.

"SCRAPPY" MOORE, BRANCH RICKEY'S SECOND GEORGE SISLER, MAY GO BACK ON HIM BY END OF THE SEASON

(By Paul Purman.) It will take the balance of this baseball season to decide whether or not Branch Rickey, developer of young college stars, was right or wrong when he picked Scrappy Moore as a second George Sisler. Rickey found Moore at Vanderbilt University, where he was a star at football, baseball and track athletics. At the time he signed Moore he was a scout for the St. Louis Browns. Later Rickey went to the Cardinals and made an effort to take the youngster with him but failed.

If Moore ever attains the baseball prominence of Sisler it will be a great surprise to critics who have seen him in action. This does not necessarily mean that Moore will fail as a big leaguer for he shows indications of being a first-class infielder, but Sisler and Cobb appear about once in a generation and Moore does not appear to be one of these.

All of which shows that even an expert like Rickey can fall down once in a while.

THREE-YEAR-OLD RACE FEATURES DAY'S SKED

Favorites Fall in Opening of Grand Circuit at North Randall.

Cleveland, O., July 17.—Five races are scheduled for today's grand circuit card as a result of the large number of entries in the 2:19 trot, which has forced the splitting of this event into two divisions.

The feature event is the first division of the Fasig $2,500 sweepstakes for 3-year-old trotters and Kelly De Forest, piloted by Murphy, is expected to be installed favorite. Colleen probably will be the choice in the 2:05 pace.

Although Gen. Todd is sure to have some enthusiastic backers, Colleen has made a fine showing in the twice arounds and is a consistent racer, while the Todd horse is termed a bad actor. In the 2:10 pace of the nine entries Edward F. Battle King and Butte Hale are touted as the class, although all of the contestants are pretty evenly matched. Nine horses will get the word in the first division of the 2:19 trot, which apparently will be an open race. The horses are evenly matched and the talent will have some trouble installing a favorite.

The Opening Card. Favorites fell down before outsiders in yesterday's racing when the work was finally started after rain held off the start for an hour and rendered the track heavy. The Edwards $4,000 pacing stake and the 2:10 trot went to Col. Armstrong and The Woodman, both from the twice-around. Followers of the favorite horses left the track out of humor. Summaries:

Kindred Souls by Berton Bracey

CHAPTER I. The white breakers crashed heavily upon the smooth beach. The sea stretched away illimitable, immense. "Gee, ain't the ocean grand," said Hortense Hautone, the young society queen, as she reclined luxuriously in her own specially imported sand.

"Yes, ain't it," responded Clarence Ponsonby D'Artagan, heir to a hundred millions. CHAPTER II. "How wonderful it is!" exclaimed Hortense. "To find a kindred soul, how marvelous that the first time I meet a guy like you I find you sympathetic in admiration of this sea shore stuff!"

"Daughter," he said, ominously, "Who is this wowser?" CHAPTER III. The stern figure of Hortense's father appeared on the scene in a sumptuous bathing suit of red and purple stripes three inches wide.

"Daughter," he said, ominously, "who is this wowser?" "L," said Clarence, rising laughingly to his feet, "Am Clarence Ponsonby D'Artagan, of the Ponsonby D'Artagans, of Ponsonby Manor, Ponsonby Parish, Ponsonby County, North Carolina, and your obedient servant."

"All right," said father, "if you're my obedient servant, run up to the hotel and get me a cocktail. This sea air is so lately great for the thirst." CHAPTER IV. An hour has passed, and Clarence has not returned. Hortense's father flicks his lips with a dry and parched tongue. Presently he rises and saunters toward the hotel, where he finds Clarence in the bar, putting away his fifth Bronx. "Hello old party," cries Clarence. "What'll it be?" "Make it the same," says Father. For they, too, are kindred souls.

Hortense remains reclining luxuriously in her own imported sand and the sea still stretches away, illimitable, immense.

ANNUAL REGATTA JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

Of Inter-Lake Yachting Association Opens at Put-In-Bay Today. Put-In-Bay, Ohio, July 17.—The annual regatta of the Inter-Lake Yachting Association got fully under way here this morning with the first of the series of sail yacht races.

In spite of the belief that the war would decrease the number of boats entered, the fleet in the harbor is larger than ever before. The competition in class A between Toledo and Buffalo boats is expected to be the important feature of the sail yacht events.

RELEASE OF EVERS AND SCHULTE ENDS REIGN OF GREATEST BASEBALL MACHINE

A three line item appeared in the sport pages the other day announcing that Johnny Evers had been released to the Phillies by the Boston Braves. Some two or three weeks earlier a three line item appeared in the sport pages announcing that Pittsburgh had traded Frank Schulte.

All of which is reminiscent of baseball a decade ago and which shows the favor of the fans, like that of kings, is a transient thing. Ten years ago Evers was shortstop and Schulte was playing right field for one of the greatest baseball machines the world has ever seen—the Chicago Cubs.

More Baseball Equipment to the Soldiers in France

Clark Griffith Defies Sibs Which Sunk the Initial Shipment.

Chicago, Ill., July 17.—General Pershing's army in France is to have baseballs, bats, masks and gloves, despite the activities of the German submarines which sent to the bottom of the Atlantic ocean enough baseball supplies to equip 150 clubs when they sunk the American steamship Kansas. The baseball paraphernalia carried by the Kansas was sent through the efforts of Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington American league team, who several weeks ago started a chain letter to collect twenty-five cents from each of his friends to supply soldiers in the American army with baseball outfits. When the receipts totaled close to $8,000 Griffith purchased the supplies and started them to France on the Kansas.

Griffith, who is here today, started another chain letter and asked everyone who contributed on the first call to send in another quarter. When the new subscription reaches a sufficient sum he will start another consignment across the Atlantic. President Wilson was one of the contributors to the first fund.

Indians Scalp Yanks. Cleveland, O., July 17.—Although Bob Sharkey pitched a fine brand of ball the Yankee defense cracked under the strain in the sixth yesterday and the Indians took a one-run lead, winning 3 to 2. Bagby for the Tribe was effective except in the fourth inning, when the Yanks bunched three hits and gobbled two runs. He allowed nine hits but they were scattered except in the fourth. Sharkey was touched for seven safe blows, but in the fatal sixth his only two passes and an error by Baker put the game on ice for the Tribe. Score: R.H.E. IN developing the Firestone Super-size Cord Tire only the facts of road performance dictated manufacturing policy. Perhaps the relentless Firestone road tests are responsible for the marked differences between Firestone Cord Tires and others. Super-size, that is, greater birth and larger air column, is one of these differences. A special arrangement of the cords is another. The Firestone tread compound is another. All of these have been definitely tested and proved by experience, road experience.

Your preference for Firestone Super-size Cord construction can come only as a result of your experience with them. ONTARIO LEAGUE IS REPRESENTED TUESDAY

Rev. Lightsinn Tells of Walther League Work in the Dominion.

Rev. W. F. Lightsinn, president of the Ontario district of the Walther League, was present at the Tuesday morning session of the national officers' convention in session here. He told of the work being done in Canada and of the great progress there.

Following his address, P. A. Klein, of this city, reported that the league is indirectly represented in South America, and the report led to discussion making the society international. Great efforts will be made to widen the scope of the league and have it represented in every country where there are Lutheran churches.

Tuesday morning's session was opened with prayer by Rev. Paul Miller. Following this the hospice committee reported. The report recommended the establishment of an employment bureau by the secretary in each city and in connection with all other secretaries. More efficient advertising in the Lutheran church papers was also recommended.

Plans for establishing a comfort league for Lutheran boys in the army were further discussed. This work will be carried on similar to that of the Y. M. C. A. and in connection with the latter organization. Everything possible will be done to further the comforts of the young Lutheran soldiers.

WITHDRAW OBJECTION TO RAIL RATE ON COAL

Interests That Opposed the Boost See Railroads and Light.

Indianapolis, July 17.—The objection of the Indiana Bituminous Coal Operators' association and the Terre Haute chamber of commerce to a proposed increase of the flat sum of 15 cents a ton on coal freight rates in Indiana were withdrawn today at the hearing on the question before the Indiana public service commission.

Samuel A. Royce, attorney for the operators, after the Terre Haute organization said in asking to withdraw the objections, that the action had been decided upon after a conference with the railroad representatives. The operators had opposed an increase of a flat sum suggesting if any higher freight rates were granted they should be on the percentage basis.

Representatives of the railroads continued to introduce testimony before the commission today in an effort to show that on account of greatly advanced cost of operation the roads must have higher freight incomes at once or face financial disaster.

Purpose of Finns to Get Full Independence is Worring Russia.

GERMAN INTRIGUE THOUGHT TO BLAME

Diet is Divided on Issue, Some Holding Its Plan Unconstitutional.

Helsingfors, July 17.—The proposed promulgation whereby Finland seeks to wrest from Russia complete independence has caused extreme tension and nervousness. The situation is complicated by the diet's continual refusal to grant a full 350,000,000 marks loan to Russia and by threat of a general strike if the diet postpones the passage of the new communal bill abolishing property qualifications. The latter was the subject of a demonstration in the senate last night. If no compromise is reached the bill will be on third reading tomorrow backed by socialist and a handful of bourgeois members.

Law Not Valid.

Other bourgeois members of Swedish-Finnish nationality oppose the measure declaring they, too, support in principle complete independence but that the proposed law is in fact unconstitutional, and a coup d'etat would be certain to provoke Russia's resentment. A. I. Shingarov, Russian minister of finance, explained Russia's difficulties through inability to pay her soldiers and sailors in Finland owing to lack of Finnish currency and Finland's refusal to accept the ruble.

Thereupon Americans undertook to put at Russia's disposal all Finnish marks obtainable in America, also to furnish money of foreign exchange which Finland accepts. Governor General Stakovich outlined to the Associated Press Russia's standpoint.

Russia Would Protest.

"The seriousness of the situation today," he said, "arises from the fact that a majority of the senate in the diet has abandoned legality and the principle of mutual aid and insists on regulating its own inter-relationships by the will of Finland alone. That is not all. The new independence bill is also a flat violation of Finland's own constitutional laws. The latter require a five-sixths majority in the diet for an amendment of the constitution by quick procedure. There is no prospect of a five-sixths majority on third reading."

Asked what would be Russia's attitude in the event the measure became a law, M. Stakovich answered:

"The provisional government will probably issue a declaration of protest to the allies."

It is believed the present situation is due to German intrigue.

ANOTHER SPEED RECORD MADE IN AVIATION BILL

Defensive Work of the American Coast Guard

Beach Patrol Can Flash Warnings Up and Down the Coast by Signals and Telephone Day or Night to Guard Against Attack.

The BEACH-CENTRE of the GUARD.

The "BLINKER" LIGHT

CAN SEARCH the SEAS for MILES.

ON WATCH in the COAST GUARD'S TOWER

THE news that the Coast Guard has been increased in numbers and urged to keep constant watch for untoward incidents at sea calls attention to this devoted but little understood line of defense for the nation.

Night and day the vigil of the Coast Guard goes on. We read of the rescue of the crew of a stranded ship at night and some attention is called to the work of the beach patrol, but sufficient credit is not given to the sleepless watch that the men of the guard maintain over the vast stretches of sea that wash our great coast line.

Now that war has come, the alertness of the Coast Guard is truly valuable to the country, for they will be called upon to keep their powerful telescopes and binoculars constantly turned on the surface of the seas, from Maine to the canal and from Alaska to the lowest wilds of the Western coast line. No one knows what to expect if the war cloud breaks in full storm fury. A resourceful and alert foe may strike without warning, and this makes it imperative that the Coast Guard sentinels keep wide awake. They are amply provided with means to sound instant warning to the defenders of the coast.

By night the beach patrol watches the seas from points distant from the central station. They have to keep alert eyes on lonely inlets where undersea boats could sneak in under cover of darkness; they must search by day for signs of caches made by sympathizers ashore who may be in touch with the officers of the hostile craft by secret wireless apparatus, for stores of oil or war material accumulated at spots known to the foreign foe, for wireless stations in remote and little frequented sections of the long coast line, on uninhabited islands off the rocky Maine coast, or the sandy desert coast line of the South.

The sudden flaming of this torch would warn the coast for leagues along and prompt an instant springing to arms.

The instant a warning is received at the central station the watcher there will spring to the government telephone and sound a note of alarm to the nearest military station, and so it would travel up and down the coast and reach the heart of the defense system of the country.

This is the regular round of duty of the Coast Guard. But in peace times they merely watch the sea for indications of loss of life by shipwreck and jump to save where it can be done. In war time the work of the guard is vastly more important. Their eyes have been trained for years to catch the smallest indication of the unusual on the surface of the sea, and no landsman could be so well equipped to do this all-important line of defense work. But it is probable that the government will call for volunteer Coast Guards to supplement the efforts of the regular patrolmen, whose numbers are all too small for the mammoth work that will be shouldered upon them.

These will be selected from amateur sailors whose eyes have been trained to some extent to know the signs of the sea, from the members of yacht clubs who have offered their services in of the country. In this service are some half hundred cutters, which are effective as the nucleus for an effective antishubmarine fighting force.

Nowhere, with our land or our sea forces, will be found a corps of trained men who will brave greater dangers or who take the casting of their lives into the balance of service so lightly. These men of the Coast Guard are men who have taken the matter of individual risk as a matter of course in the day's work. It is the portion of excitement necessary to keep alive the spark of interest in the breasts of some men.

Yes, they are hunters of trouble. Long night vigils are spent on the lonely stretches of the beach, looking for opportunity to risk life and limb, and the same individual point of view may be expected from these men now that they feel the safety of the nation is in their keeping, just as much as war, and still in the lives of the unlucky passenger or seaman blown to their shores on the wings of some furious storm.

No less spectacular deeds of bravery and daring need be expected from the man of the Coast Guard cutter service than from their brothers of the land patrol. These men really will be more in the way of fighting than the man who walks his bent along the rocky shores of the land. The little vessels, even in times of peace, so armed in their work of policing the waters, which are under the jurisdiction of the United States, and now that attack is not an impossible thing, they are better prepared to combat some foolish submarine commander who gets too intimate with the affairs of this country.

No one knows just what activities these little patrolmen of the home waters may be going through, but no doubt they may be found valuable not only in seeing to it that dark schemes are put at naught, but probably will be of value in laying mines and in other forms of national defense.

After all, the Coast Guard service is an emergency service, and in the hands of intrepid workers who are never at loss how to do a thing nor when. Called on for service, these men act, and usually in the right direction. They have little time to think out lines of campaign and are not of the kind that is given to making serious blunders, in a calling where to blunder is to risk life, not only of the blunderer but of the ones for whose safety they are responsible.

When the nations of the world are brought to peaceful ways no doubt many of the old Coast Guard will have thrilling stories to add to their tales of daring in the garnering of wrecks from the maw of the ocean in days of the past.

Should war come closer to the shores of the United States than now seems probable, it is certain that the great military departments at Washington will keep one ear pretty closely glued to the wires which connect with the Coast Guard stations of the country.

chestra, an entertainment by Miss Stiles, the children's worker, and a lecture by Dr. Martin D. Hardin, one of Chicago's best known pulpits orators, on "America and the World of Tomorrow."

"I am not a 'peace at any price' man," declared Mr. Hardin, whose peace lecture in Europe was declared by William J. Bryan to be "the strongest speech delivered in America on the European situation."

Dr. Hardin heartily supports the president in his stand with Germany and believes that there is no hope of world peace until Germany is brought to her senses.

What part is America to play in the present world crisis? What policy is she to stand for after the war closes? Can there be a permanent "democratic peace"? Will America democratize Europe, or will Europe militarize America? What lessons has the world war to teach the great republic and what has America to offer the world? These are the pertinent questions of the hour discussed by Dr. Hardin. You will love America more and be a better patriot for having heard his address.

Dr. Hardin last year lectured on the topic, "Civilization at the Crossroads," speaking to large audiences in 112 cities on one of the western Redpath circuits.

YOUNG MEN

Registrants may secure their new numbers at the following places: District No. 1, at the Shields Clothing store, 120 West Berry street; district No. 2, at city clerk's office in the city hall, and district No. 3, at the office of the Bass Foundry and Machine company. Complete lists are also on file at the various newspaper offices.

Allen county will be called upon to furnish 709 men for Uncle Sam's new army. Five hundred and fifty-seven of this number will be called from Port Wayne. Speculation as to who will be drawn is quite naturally the all absorbing topic at the present time. Of course, there is no way of telling. It is one big lottery. Absolutely no favoritism is to be shown.

There are four boards operating in Allen county, each board consisting of two civilians and one doctor. When the numbers are announced those drawn will be required to undergo an examination as to their physical fitness. Claims of exemption will not be considered at this time. If the registrant passes the physical examination the matter of exemption will then be taken up.

The parents of the young men to be drafted are perhaps taking really no interest in the lottery than are the young men themselves. This does not mean that the young men are not concerned—for they certainly are. But the parents are the ones and especially the mothers who are, as a matter of fact, making the biggest sacrifice. There is, therefore, a greater feeling of anxiety in Allen county at the present time than since the drafting days of the civil war and the anxiety is even greater for the reason that there are many more subject to conscription now than then.

Those subject to the draft should not be confused by the numbers on their registration cards. These numbers have nothing to do whatever with the drawing at Washington.

The 709 young men selected from Allen county will go into training at the new cantonment now under course of construction at Louisville. It will take several months to whip the men into fit condition for service abroad.

At City Clerk's Office.

An endless chain of young men visited the office of the city clerk Tuesday. At the noon hour the office was filled to capacity. The men who have signed up for conscription are anxious to know the numbers which will represent their names in the coming humdrum lottery.

Deputy City Clerk Leroy Swartz was kept in a sweat answering the telephone, which rang almost incessantly Tuesday. To all inquiries about the conscription numbers the clerk explained that the lists were open for inspection and that anxious young men could hunt out their numbers themselves.

The large tables in the office which were formerly used by the conscription clerks were again drawn into service. At the tables were seated the men who craned over the three lists of nearly 3,000 names in each group.

"We are not trying to do anything else but give out the lists and answer the telephone," said Swartz. "Any other plan of action would be useless."

The Ladies of Mooseheart Legion will meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

HALF SCORE

necessity for concerted action by the states ceases and the examination of registrants and their assignment to the army or exemption can proceed in any state without regard to progress made in any other community. The ten states not having completed their preparations for the drawing are: Alabama, Illinois, New York, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

The group includes the states having the largest population and probably the total population of all ten represents somewhere near half of the population of the entire country. The fact that reports from only 649 additional districts of the 4,558 are missing, however, shows that even in the ten states the work is well advanced and each has only a few districts behind schedule. The entire list may be completed today.

Silent as to Pleading Charges.

General Clegg declined to make any comment on the statements made yesterday in the senate attacking the fairness of the census bureau population estimates upon which the allotment of quotas under the draft law is based.

Other officials pointed out, however, that the revised estimates of the census bureau were not intended to fix the actual population of an community. The estimates are prefaced with the statement that they are for use in connection with the draft only. They are based upon registration and represent the distribution over the country of men between the ages fixed in the draft law as liable for military service. Large figures for many of the cities are accounted for by the concentration of men of the draft age there for work in munitions or other plants.

The conference also approved Senator Gore's proposal for government commandeering, purchase, lease or operation of coal mines and also his provision for government purchase and sale, to secure reasonable prices of fuel, wheat, flour.

The committee decided not to hold hearings in order that the appropriations may become available as soon as possible. Senate leaders hope to secure an agreement to set aside the food bill temporarily tomorrow and pass the aviation measure with brief debate. Among amendments suggested by the war department and which the committee today decided to postpone, was one for creating an aircraft production board. The committee believed such an amendment would develop complications regarding personnel and powers of the board and congressional action could well be deferred.

RUSSIA HAS NEW CRISIS

Premier Lvoff has requested the minister to meet at his private residence when the cause of the dispute will be considered. It is known he will attempt to prevail on them to withdraw their resignations. The split in the ministry occurred last night at a ministerial conference called to consider a report submitted by M. Tseretshenki, minister of foreign affairs, and M. Tseretelli, minister of interior, as a result of the negotiations concerning the Ukraine. After the report was read the cabinet ministers promptly took exception to the form of a declaration drawn up by M. Tseretshenki and M. Tseretelli, and agreed to the fact that these ministers without the authorization of the government took on themselves to commit the government to a definite policy regarding the Ukraine.

In addition to this cause of complaint, the cabinet ministers criticized the text of the Ukraine declaration, first because it abolished all powers of the temporary government in the Ukraine, second, because it did not specify of what territories the Ukraine consist or make clear how it shall be governed. M. Tseretshenki and Tseretelli flatly insisted upon the immediate publication of the declaration, adding that the form might be altered if the sense were kept intact. When the vote was taken the two Lvoffs in the cabinet and the socialist declared themselves in favor of the declaration as already drawn without correction or alteration. Opposed by the majority, the cabinet members then resigned.

M. Prokopovitch and M. Chornousky have been appointed ministers of commerce and education respectively.

PLAN TO SETTLE DIFFICULTY.

After taking cognizance of views of M. Tseretshenki and M. Tseretelli and of a communication from War Minister Kerensky on the subject, the provisional government decided today on the creation of an executive body to put into execution measures dealing with the administration of Ukraine. The personnel will be decided on by the government in agreement with the Ukrainians on the basis of equitable representation of other nationalities inhabiting Ukraine. The provisional government will adopt a sympathetic attitude in regard to the elaboration of necessary measures as well as a bill dealing with the solution of the Agrarian question. In order to maintain the combative unity of the army, the government will not countenance measures which might injure the military organization and command although it does not object to the creation of army units composed exclusively of Ukrainians, subject to the approval of the war ministry.

AUSTRIAN HOUSE ADJOURNS.

Vienna, via Amsterdam, July 17.—

The lower house has adjourned indefinitely. The president in concluding his speech said: "We again have freed the way for constitutional life. We have secured the assurance of the position of the country. May it have strength to fulfill the great task of rebuilding the empire."

DUAL EMPIRE'S PEACE IDEAS.

Vienna, via Amsterdam, July 17.—Austria-Hungary's ideas on peace were made known to the constitution committee of the reichsrath in an address by the premier, Dr. von Seydler. After referring to the unbreakable unity between Austria and her allies, Dr. von Seydler declared parliament would work for "the aim for which Austria is fighting: Namely, the unassailable, sacred right of her people to decide for themselves their internal destiny. This task, at the same time, will be a long stride in the direction of an honorable peace, which we desire to establish on the basis of science, moderation and conciliation—the firm unity of all civilized peoples and their uniform endeavor to abolish those circumstances which brought about the world war. We are all longing for this peace. Until then we are held on to the firm hold of co-operation between front and homeland."

Dr. von Seydler referred to the uselessness of all past efforts to carry out the principle of the rights of all nationalities laid down in the constitution. This, he said, was the cause of the political troubles which made Austria appear sick, a state which, however, every clear-minded person knew to be untrue. All peoples of Austria were united externally and internally by a common tie, by love of the dynasty and the uniformity of all vital interests.

BRITISH REPORT GAINS.

London, July 17.—"We gained slightly during the night northwest of Wrennmon," says a statement of the British war office today. "In the Newport sector," the communication adds, "one of our raiding parties encountered a large party of the enemy in front of the German positions. After a sharp fight our troops drove back the enemy to their trenches and bombarded them in their trenches."

GERMANS BOMB RUSSIANS.

RUSSIANS EVACUATE KALUSZ.

Berlin, July 17.—(Via London).—Russian forces which recently captured the Galician town of Kalusz, the headquarters of the Austro-German army, evacuated that town yesterday according to the official statement issued today by the German army headquarters staff.

The statement says that Rhineland regiments captured the woodlands to the north of Kalusz. As the German were approaching the town the Russians evacuated the town and retreated to the southern bank of the river Lomnica.

RUSSIANS ADMIT IT.

PARK BOARD WILL INCREASE SALARIES

Total of $34,000 Will Be Asked for All Expenditures Next Year.

The council committee on fees and salaries will be asked to endorse the desire of the park board for raising salaries of all office help in connection with city park affairs. The increase asked by the park commissioners will amount to $390 a year.

Ten dollars per month advance is asked for Mrs. Baker and Miss Schmidt, clerks in the park board office. If the advance is allowed Mrs. Baker will receive $88 a month and Miss Schmidt $75 per month.

"Both of these women had a chance to leave the city employment, but they stayed on in job because of loyalty to the work," said C. D. N. Foster, head of the park board, at the Monday afternoon session of the commissioners. "Such a stand should be rewarded. They are entitled to a raise the same as the men."

There was no comment upon the matter of an increase for Charles J. Steiss, secretary to the board, and Carl J. Getz, city forester. The discussion will take place before the council committee. Park commissioners favor the allowing of $2,000 for Getz and $1,800 for Steiss.

For all expenditures the park board will ask $34,000 next year. It was determined at the weekly session. The amount is $10,000 more than the appropriation granted for this year. Increase is due to repairs needed on the park greenhouses, for boulevard improvements and salary increases.

Action on the matter of providing a new boulevard for the city was rescinded by the board. The majority of the property owners along the boulevard had signed a remonstrance against the improvement. The work is expected to be taken up next year as the board has been given to understand by several property owners that no opposition to the paving will be made next summer.

The board decided to order action of cinderling Anthony boulevard, from Maumee avenue to Lake avenue, at once. The plat for the Kensington park addition was approved by the board. The city controller will be asked to transfer $1,500 from the general park fund to the pay roll account in order to meet increases in pay asked.

Bills Are Higher.

The budget submitted by the board of works will be higher this year. Figures will be of greater domination in nearly every branch of the public service. Higher price of coal and increase in cost of labor are given as the principal reasons for needing more funds for the different departments.

Finished Street.

The Grace Construction company has finished their work of laying top dressing on Melita street, from Harrison street to Hoagland avenue.

BISBEE SITUATION

Scene of I. W. W. Deportations Returning to Usual State.

Bisbee, Ariz., July 17.—Except for the occasional deportation of an Industrial Worker of the World member or sympathizer, who found his way past the guards stationed along the roads entering the Warren copper mining district or eluded the round-up last Thursday when more than 1,100 men were deported, conditions apparently were approaching normal in Bisbee today. The copper mine operators expressed themselves satisfied at the number of new men applying for employment and said they expected full crews at work before the week was over. Although there has been no orders since the deportation, the force of civilian guards still is maintained.

NO MORE ARRESTS IN JOHNSTOWN TRAGEDY

Authorities Satisfied for Present With Rich Coal Man.

Johnstown, Pa., July 17.—That there will be no more arrests was the positive statement made today by county authorities investigating the mysterious murder of Edward Humphries, prominent coal operator, his wife, Mrs. Carrie Humphries, and their 15-year-old son, Edward Humphries, Jr., last Sunday near Carrollton, this county. The authorities, however, refused to say whether this announcement could be taken to mean that no further efforts would be for the purpose of connecting George C. Tompkins, of Philadelphia, the fourth member of the automobile party, who is in the Cambria county jail, charged with the crime.

Tompkins continued to maintain his innocence today and reiterated his story that the party was held up and the three Humphries shot by masked highwaymen.

Potato prices among retailers started the long expected decline Tuesday, falling from 75c a peck to 65c, a drop of 10c. Predictions on further changes of spud prices are to the effect that more declines will follow in rapid order. It has been rumored in market circles that a farmer who sells most of his produce in this city was offered a flat price of 25c a peck for his entire crop and was seriously considering the deal.

Wheat is once more steady, with dealers offering $2.00 and $2.02 per bushel for the grain. The figures which have been in effect for the past week were $1.90 and $2.02, but the former figure offered almost no competition to the millers offering over $2 and a change was made accordingly. Very little can be bought just now at any price.

Thirteen loads were weighed at the city scales today, with an advance in hay, corn and oats prices. Eight loads of hay at $15.00@16.00, from 50c to $1 having been added.

Three loads of corn sold at 70¢ and two loads of oats brought 72¢@73¢ per bushel.

CORN ADVANCES AS

PEACE TALK ABATES

Considerable Upturns Were Scored Before There Was Reaction.

Chicago, July 17.—Higher prices for corn resulted today from the fact that peace rumors had received no confirmation and that cable advices again suggested prolonged hostilities. Opening quotations which ranged from 1 1/2c to 2 3/4c higher, with September at $1.59 1/2 and December at $1.10 1/4 to $1.12, were followed by moderate further upturns before a reaction set in. The close was steady at 1 1/2c advance, with July at $2.07 and September at $1.93.

Promising field advices from Canada appeared to give firmness to wheat. Prices opened unchanged to 1/4c higher at $2.06 and $1.95 1/2 September, a level from which no variation took place for a considerable time.

The close was firm, 1c to 1/4c net higher, with September at $1.60 and December at $1.13 1/4 to $1.15 1/2.

THESE SERVANTS OF THE NATION ARE WORKING THAT YOU MAY EAT

(By HARRY B. HUNT.)

Washington, July 14.—(By Mail.)—Here is an inside glimpse into a government war council. The three persons at the big desk are staff officers in Herbert Hoover's new Woman's Army Against Waste, at work planning an important move in the food campaign. On their success in marshaling the women of America in the big battle against waste may depend the fate of our other army in France and the whole allied fight for democracy.

As only military experts are chosen to direct our army at the front, so only household and food experts were chosen to direct the fight for food conservation in our homes.

Dr. Abby L. Marlatt, at the left, is a specialist on the subjects of nutrition and scientific home management. She is a native of Kansas, a graduate of Kansas State college, and for eight years has been director of the department of home economics at the University of Wisconsin. Before going to Wisconsin she taught home economics in the schools of Providence, R. I., and organized the department of home economics at the state college of Utah.

Dr. C. F. Langworthy, in center, is Uncle Sam's official expert on calories and food values. As chief of the bureau of home economics of the department of agriculture, he directs all government investigations to determine actual nutritive values of foods and to find improved ways of preparing foodstuffs so as to insure maximum nourishment. All government recipes and food bulletins are prepared under his supervision, and he is, in effect, the big chef behind Uncle Sam's cook book.

Dr. Alice C. Broughton, at right, won her right to a staff position in the food army by winning a fight against waste in the lunch service of the Philadelphia public schools. On graduating from Columbia, where she won her Ph. D. in economics and sociology, this young woman reorganized the lunch service, then a losing experiment, and made it self-sustaining. Later she helped in the survey of Cleveland public schools, reporting on deficiencies in courses on household arts and system of school lunches. She secured leave from her duties with the bureau of educational experiments and research in home economics to give her services for the period of the war to the Woman's Army Against Waste.

These three officers compose the advisory committee of the home economics division of the food administration.

FRAME COMPROMISE FOR THE FOOD BILL

BOARD OF CONTROL INSTEAD OF GIVING ALL POWER TO ONE

Senate Leaders Make Progress With Amendments, Debate Is Resumed and Vote May Be Taken Today.

REVISED BILL LIKELY TO BE APPROVED

Washington, July 17.—Senate leaders today virtually concluded their task of drafting compromise amendments to the administration food control bill and debate was continued with the prospect of voting late today or tomorrow.

The compromise agreement the democrats and republicans who have been working together believe will command support from a majority of the senate.

Creation of a board of food administration in lieu of a single individual, composed of three members directly under the president's control, is the principal change to be proposed by the leaders. Other important changes agreed upon today at the bipartisan conference were for fixing by congress of a minimum price of $1.75 per bushel for wheat, and extension of the government licensing and food purchasing powers in the bill. It previously had been agreed to limit government control to foods, feeds and fuels including gasoline and kerosene. The minimum wheat price of $1.75 under the tentative amendment drafted today, would be for No. 1 northern wheat as a basis of standard for minimum prices of all other wheat grades.

Provisions of Senate Gore's substitute bill regarding the wheat minimum price, the licensing and federal requisitioning purchase and sale powers were substantially approved by the leaders. The proposed compromise would provide for licensing of elevators, cold

BAY STATE MAY PROTEST QUOTA IN ARMY DRAFT

Boston, Mass., July 17.—Governor McCall announced today that he was contemplating a protest against the estimate of 3,900,000 as the present population of Massachusetts which has been accepted for use in apportioning the draft. Accordingly, he said, Charles F. Gettym, director of statistics, has been asked to give him all available data on the subject. The census of 1915 showed the state's population to be 3,600,000 and Governor McCall said that with immigration virtually stopped since that time an increase of 300,000 persons in two years was apparently excessive.

POISON LIVE STOCK AND DESTROY BARN WHOLESALE IN WEST

Klamath Falls, Ore., July 17.—Evidence of wholesale poisoning of live stock and attempt to burn farm buildings in this district has been uncovered by federal agents, who are conducting an investigation here into the responsibility for a fire which last Sunday destroyed a large flour mill and a quantity of grain. It was announced today by Assistant United States Attorney J. H. Carnahan.

A report was made that 25 horses and 200 cattle had died recently of poisoning and fifty head of cattle and forty sheep died in the same manner on two other ranches. Adams it is said, has been engaged for the last two years in supplying horses and cattle to the entire government.

After the fire Sunday the headquarters here of the Industrial Workers of the World was raided and forty members of the organization were arrested.

BECOMES CHANCELLOR THROUGH POLITICAL CRISIS IN GERMANY

DR. GEORG MICHAELIS

Dr. Georg Michaelis, new chancellor of Germany, has had a varied official experience. He was born September 8, 1857, in Haynau, Schleswig, son of justice of last appeal. After holding offices of referee and assessor he was appointed, in 1885, state attorney at Berlin, whence he was called to the school of justice and politics at Tokyo.

At the end of 1889, Dr. Michaelis returned to Germany and was state attorney, transferred in 1893 to the government service in Trier, Treves. After minor promotions he was presiding justice at Breslau from 1903 to 1909.

Then he first saw high official service when the kaiser appointed him assistant state secretary in the Prussian ministry of finance.

Last year Dr. Michaelis was appointed assistant Prussian food commissioner, first assistant to the imperial food dictator, Adolph von Boettke. This brought him into special prominence in the reichstag, where he delivered several addresses. He held this position when the kaiser appointed him chancellor.

NEWSPAPERS IN MEXICO TRY TO START TROUBLE

Mexico City, July 16.—El Democrita, the chief pro-German paper, has printed three times in three days on various pretexts an article alleged to have been published in a Washington paper which is said to have been unfriendly in tone toward Mexico.

La Defensa makes vehement attacks on what it alleges is the United States policy toward Mexico, declaring that the United States with the patience of a cat is only awaiting an opportunity to spring on its prey, supposedly Mexico.

Washington, July 17.—With only ten states remaining to be heard from on the organization of local exemption boards and with the serial number lists of registrants from all but 649 of the 4,559 exemption districts on file in Washington, Provost Marshal General Crowder was hopeful today that the preliminary stages of the war army drawing would be completed within forty-eight hours. He prepared to take up with Secretary Baker later in the day details of the lottery process for final approval.

One Can Hold Up All.

If there is no unexpected delay it seems likely that the drawing can be held Friday or Saturday. A single district which fails to finish its preliminary work on time, however, can hold up action indefinitely.

Once past the drawing stage, General Crowder pointed out today, the Petrograd, Monday, July 16.—Two demonstrations against the government resulted in the firing of shots in the Nevsky Prospect at midnight as a result of which a number of persons were killed or wounded.

The firing apparently was the result of stray shots which brought on a panic, in which the demonstrators turned rifles and machine guns on each other. Quiet was restored after a few minutes.

The demonstrations were organized by the Bolsheviks, the majority faction of the social-democratic party.

THREE QUIT THE CABINET.

Petrograd, July 17.—Three members of the cabinet have resigned and a special session of the council of ministers has been convened in an effort to avert a crisis.

Their names are A. I. Shingoroff, minister of finance; Prof. Manuloff, minister of education, and Prince Shalovsky, head of the department of public aid. The resignations of these cabinet ministers followed a sharp disagreement over questions involving the Ukraine, an extensive region in Russia embracing the territories of the old kingdom of Poland.

The attendance included Premier Lloyd George, Foreign Secretary Balfour and other members of the cabinet, the archbishop of Canterbury, former Premier Asquith and all members of the colonial government who are now in London.

The privy council unanimously endorsed King George's announcement and the proclamation putting it into effect was published this afternoon.

King George is of the house of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. It was recently decided to drop titles or names of German origin.

New York, July 17.—Wounded while fighting in the Boer army against the British, Henry Craemer, now 38 years old, has enlisted in the British army. He asked for Gen. W. A. White, in charge of British recruiting in America, and refreshed the general's memory regarding the charge at Ladysmith, and the officers' subsequent interrogation of Boer prisoners.

"I was one of them," Craemer said. "I don't hate the English any more and I want to fight against the Germans." Craemer was accepted for the cavalry.

THE RUSSIANS HAVE ABANDONED KALUSZ

London, July 17.—A Reuter dispatch from Ymuiden says four German ships have been sunk by British destroyers in the North sea, four captured, three stranded and three forced to return to Rotterdam.

AN EARLIER ACCOUNT.

London, July 17.—The admiral announces the capture of four German steamers by British destroyers in the North sea.

Two other German steamers were with the four vessels later captured when the group was sighted by the British war craft. All six made for the British coast and two of them reached the shore. These two were badly damaged by gun fire.

The steamers are the Pellworm, Brietzel, Marie Horn and Hienablungberg.

The captured steamers are all small, the largest being the Brietzel, of 1,495 tons gross, owned in Hamburg. The Pellworm, 1,370 tons gross, also was owned in Hamburg. The Marie Horn, 1,085 tons, is from Schleswig, and the Hienablungberg, 1,226 tons, is registered from Hamburg.

"What have I done to suffer the insult of such a proposal at this time?" wrote the Rev. Mr. Hastings today. French Front, June 25.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Severe inroads have been made on the strength of the German troops holding the line on the Franco-British front during the attacks delivered on them in the months of April, May and June. An estimate made on well established averages demonstrates that their losses must approximate 350,000 men.

French and British began, the German front had been divided into two sectors entirely independent of each other. One faced the French between the Oise and the Swiss frontier, and was under the command of the crown prince. The other confronted the British from the North sea to the Oise and was commanded by the Bavarian crown prince.

Vast German Forces.
At the beginning of the Franco-British offensive the Germans had at their disposal on the whole front stretching from the North sea to Switzerland, 147 divisions, of which 105 were actually in the front line and 42 in the rear ready for employment at any point where their help was needed. These reserve divisions were about equally distributed in the northern and southern sectors.

The situation on the Russian front permitted the Germans to detach some of their active divisions from that side and at the same time they formed several new divisions, which they brought to the French front so that on June 20 the number of their divisions facing the French and British was 155 in spite of the fact that they had replaced the active divisions brought from Russia by landwehr units sent from this side.

The strength of the German forces on the Franco-British front cannot, however, be calculated exactly from the number of their divisions, for no fewer than 112 of the 155 have been thrown into the battles at various times and 22 of them have been twice engaged, thus totaling in reality 185 divisions which have been in action.

Losses Gauged Accurately.
As a general rule a division is not withdrawn from the fighting line until it has lost one-third of its effectiveness and thus the German losses may be fairly accurately gauged. For instance, a German division nowadays when at full strength numbers approximately 7,500 infantrymen.

Therefore the 125 divisions, which have passed through the fire have in all probability each lost 2,500 killed, wounded and prisoners, making in all 312,500 casualties in less than three months without regard to losses among the artillery engineers and other service troops. Forty-three of the German divisions in the fighting, these comprising eighteen landwehr divisions, considered as second line troops, and twenty-five other divisions.

Some of the German divisions have had to be withdrawn after only two days' fighting on account of their division may remain as long as six days and still others only after fifteen days or even a month.

Frequent Changes Show Losses.

During quiet periods, such as now, a division may remain as long as six or seven weeks in a front sector, without relief and it is known that at least seven German divisions now engaged have occupied the front.

A German division which has suffered heavy losses in a generally given a rest varying from five to twelve days in which to recuperate and have its ranks refilled from the depots and then it is sent to hold a calm sector. Sometimes, however, it has been found necessary to send such a division back to active work almost immediately while in other cases a month's rest has been necessary. One peculiar feature noticed on this front is that the German divisions brought back from Russia have never been sent into the first line without going through a fresh course of training, as it was found the troops had lost much of their dash.

AGENTS FAVOR ACID PHOSPHATE FERTILIZER

In a resolution adopted at the conference of county agents held Monday afternoon in the assembly room of the court house, acid phosphate fertilizer of 16 to 18 per cent was favored by all those present for wheat.

Prof. J. C. Beaver, of Purdue, spoke to the assemblage and told that in sowing wheat three things should be carefully watched. There should be a deep seed bed. Good seed should be chosen and all seed should be treated for smut.

CARRIED HALF MILE.

In an Automobile Hit by a Train and is Still Alive.

Howe, Ind., July 17.—Although carried for half a mile in his automobile, which was caught on the pilot of a passenger train as the result of being hit, James Schaeffer, a farmer, is still alive. His injuries consist of a crushed right ankle, a broken right leg and a long gash over the right ear. He will recover. Schaeffer lives near Klinger lake. He was returning from Lima and was hit at the Perry McKee crossing of the Goshen and Jackson branch of the New York Central lines by a south bound passenger train.

The automobile was caught and carried ahead of the train. The engineer fearing that a sudden stop would dislodge the car, throwing Schaeffer onto the track, he slowly applied the brakes and brought the train to a gentle stop a half mile from the scene of the crash.

INCREASE IN SIZE.

Bluffton, Ind., July 17.—Local bakers today increased the size of their loaves to eighteen ounces. The size of the loaves have been increased as the price of flour goes down. Buns also dropped in price this morning, being sold at 10 cents per dozen. They have been selling at 12 cents. Just how long this price will prevail is not known but the bakers say that they will continue increasing the size of the loaves if flour continues to drop, or if it advances will cut the size.

LIKES ARMY LIFE.

Kendallville, Ind., July 17.—John La Rue, who is holding down a stenographic position in one of Uncle Sam's medical corps at Fort Thomas, Ky., has arrived home for a short visit with his father and other friends. The young man looks hale and hearty and is telling his friends the fun and experience he is having since he became identified with the United States army. He is much impressed with army life and emphasizes the fact that there is nothing like it.

STOMACH TROUBLE

QUICKLY CURED

Said Chester Wellington, Popular Fort Wayne Salesman.

Ironated Herbs Truly "Modern Medicine."

ADVISES FRIENDS.

"When my stomach began to trouble me I commenced taking all sorts of medicines, but without result. My pains increased and after some time I began to get nervous. So bad that it was difficult for me to get along with anyone. And then came sleeplessness. Hours and hours that I lay awake in bed without being able to fall asleep. Since taking Ironated Herbs, with Pepsin (in liquid form), my appetite has improved and I relish everything that I eat. I sleep better and I feel stronger. The gas on my stomach that caused me such intense suffering has entirely disappeared. I have more energy and feel in better health than I have in years."

That's what Mr. Chester Wellington, of this city, said to our demonstrator at Meyer Bros. Drug Store. "I gladly recommend this Modern Medicine to anyone who is run down in health and in poor and nervous condition and who is in need of thick red blood."

Many others like Mr. Wellington, who is well known here and has a number of friends acquired as salesman for the National Mill Supply Co., have regained new health and strength through Ironated Herbs. A tired, dragging feeling of the body, sluggish mind and dull memory, intense nervousness, stomach and bowel troubles, poor circulation, imperfect digestion are some of the common symptoms of a run down condition from which many people suffer at this time of the year. Ironated Herbs, with Pepsin, is the remedy that relieves this trouble.

Our demonstrator will gladly explain to you its merits and supply you with a bottle at Meyer Bros. Drug Store, 902 Calhoun street, Fort Wayne. ## SEATING CAPACITY

PROVED TO BE SMALL

Newly Born Shetland Pony Christened "Ft. Wayne" by the Keeper.

Gentry Brothers' dog and pony show gave two performances in Fort Wayne Monday. In the afternoon the large tent was filled while in the evening it was overflowed. More seats had to be provided and hundreds of boys were given seats on dry straw in front of the row of seats.

During the afternoon performance the keeper of the ponies entered the center ring in the large tent with a newly born Shetland pony in his arms. He said that it was ushered into this world Sunday night. He went through a small ceremony and christened the little pony "Fort Wayne." The crowd applauded and cheered.

In all the show was far above what people anticipated. In previous years the show traveled in four sections but this year all are united into one. The three elephants and camels proved to be great attractions. Monkeys, dogs and ponies galore offered two hours of amusement for the children as well as the grownups. Clowns were not missing and their many capers and stunts brought forth loud and prolonged peals of laughter. The show left early Tuesday morning over the L. E. & W.

WORLD IS AWRY, SAYS WOMAN IN CITY COURT

Brands as Falsifiers All Witnesses in Larceny Case.

"Are they all liars?" inquired Judge H. W. Kerr in city court Tuesday morning of Mrs. Ida Washington, colored, after an array of witnesses had drawn a net of damaging testimony about her defense on a larceny charge. The woman nodded assent.

"I deny everything," she said.

Those guilty of perjury, according to Mrs. Washington's statement, were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Frank, 731 East Wayne street, who told that the woman had worked for them and had stolen goods from their home; the woman next door, who said she loaned the colored woman a quarter; the taxi driver, who said he called for the negroess and took her to the interurban station when she left the Frank home, and the police who told of stories related to them by the colored maid.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank testified that they went to Rome City over the weekend several weeks ago, leaving Mrs. Washington, who had worked in the house a short time, at home. When they returned to Fort Wayne their hired girl was gone and so was a gold watch, a diamond stick pin, a suit case, a coat, a waist and other things valued at $267.

A jitney driver said he called at the Frank home and took Mrs. Washington and a new suit case to the interurban station. Detective Sergeant Pappert, who has been working on the case, told of finding the worn-out suit case and old coat belonging to Mrs. Washington in the Frank home. He brought out the articles.

"That is none of my suit case," said the woman.

"I cannot believe that all these witnesses told falsehoods," said the judge.

Mrs. Washington was bound to circuit court on the grand larceny charge under $1,000 bond.

"And to think her name is Washington," commented the judge after the session.

TUESDAY, JULY 17, 1917.
STILL TALKING COAL.

Governor Goodrich has been for several days in Washington holding consultations with sundry persons and groups in an effort to get guiding light on the coal situation. The governor took occasion to repeat with some additions of emphasis that if the federal government shall fail to deal with the general coal situation in a way to bring relief to Indiana there most surely will be a special session of the legislature to take appropriate action. Governor Goodrich states, as he had previously stated, that he prefers federal action and will undertake separate measures only as a last resort.

That the governor means business would be less open to intervention of doubt if his consultations in Washington were a little less of a partisan character. Only republican members of the Indiana delegation in congress were allowed to be privy to his inner views and intent and the council was held in the office of Senator James E. Watson. Betting solely on the dope-sheet, there is not much to be hoped for if Senator Watson is to have a hearty say-so in measures to bring the Indiana coal barons to time. Still the dope-sheet may be stale and the senator may be running in new and better form since his advent in the senate of the United States. That is a pleasant hope if not a plausible conclusion, and there is no harm in embracing the hope until it proves futile.

The probability is that Governor Goodrich's purpose in taking counsel of the Indiana republicans in congress had less to do directly with the price of coal and assurances of distribution than with the political consequences of a special session of the legislature. Special sessions are not always to partisan advantage. The last such session held in the state was fraught with partisan consequences of which Senator Watson must still have sorry recollections. Moreover, there is no reason to suppose that either Senator Watson or Senator New can be especially enamored of the idea of doing anything drastic to bring the Indiana coal barons to time. The governor has advanced some in his political and social outlook as compared with his partisan conferees of the standpat type. We do not question the sincerity of his purpose nor the determination of his mind that something must be done to relieve the coal situation in this state.

So long as there shall continue to be failure of the federal trade commission and other agencies of the general government to take effective measures for relieving the country of the grave menace of a fuel famine during the coming winter, there can be no serious quarrel with Governor Goodrich if he guides his actions by partisan considerations—and we do not intend here the inference that he is seeking to do anything of the sort. We are quite willing to believe that he is not and to hold to that belief until the contrary appears.

There ought to be early and conclusive action upon the fuel issue. The federal government is the authority through which this can best come. If no relief comes that way, Governor Goodrich can help the Indiana situation by getting the legislature together and obtaining laws that will permit the state government to exercise such control of the mines and mining as will insure ample production and prices that comport reasonably with the times.

The governor of Indiana and the governor of Illinois join in complaint that the census bureau estimates of population for the purposes of the army draft do their respective states injustice. It may be and probably is the truth. But the census bureau probably took without the question the word of Chicago and the boast of Evansville as to increases of population.

And while you're thinking of the draft, go learn your number. Then you will be able to rejoice or repine the moment your figure comes out of the big lottery. There's nothing like being forehanded against painful suspense.

And now we have it on the word of a senator from Missouri—not Gumshoe Bill, either—that Herbert C. Hoover is a food gambler, a sort of J. Rufus Wallingford and that he plunged in beans. Well, well, well. Next we shall hear that Kerensky is the promoter and chief stockholder of a powder mill in Russia and that Woodrow Wilson has all his surplus salary salted away in airplane stocks. Little more than half a century ago men of very good standing were trying to prove Lincoln a tyrant and usurper and some centuries earlier the mob yowled and yelled at One still better, "Crucify him, crucify him!"—which at length the mob did. There are no analogies here, but this, that and the other simply go to show.

THE RUSSIAN DRIVE.

On the whole front, from the gulf of Riga to Rumania, the Russian armies are in motion. A massive drive along the whole long line is proceeding and the Teutonic allies have been suddenly thrown into a panic of haste to meet it.

It is not to be expected that along the whole front the Russians will be able to achieve advances such as have marked the campaign of the brilliant Korniloff in Galicia during the whole of the present month. Nevertheless, the spectacle of the Russ armies up and at it is inspiring. It creates a powerful diversion that will afford immense relief to ally arms along the Belgian, French and Italian fronts and can be conceived as opening the way to some developments in the Balkans, where for a year Serrail has been getting ready and then getting ready some more.

Aside from the importance of military advantages that must issue from the Russian drive, the movement itself is almost a miracle. A month ago it was Germany's sneer and the ally fear that the Muscovite was out of business in the war for many months if not for good. There was every indication and promise that in arms Russia had become a futility, that the Teutonic defense from the Baltic to the Black sea had become merely nominal and that practically the whole of the German and Austrian forces had been made available for the western and Italian fronts. There is no denial that the French and British offensive designed for the late spring was badly shattered by the fall-down of Russia following the revolution. The entrance of America into the war was the brightest ray of hope and that was felt to be not altogether full compensation for the loss of Russia from the field.

What Russia is doing today discloses more than ever the brilliant, almost superhuman, achievements of the young Kerensky, Russia's minister of war. Within half a dozen weeks he has transformed his nation, rejuvenated his armies and set its forces fired with new spirit upon a militant progress that may mark a sharp turning of the tide of war. Russia may and doubtless will suffer reverses—perhaps severe ones—but she is playing the game now with wonderful elan and in Galicia with tremendous success. It is as astonishing as it is inspiring to view this amazing come-back of Russian arms so soon following what had the appearance of almost complete disappearance of spirit and abatement of energy.

PADDING THE CENSUS.

It is openly charged on the floor of the United States senate that the census estimates on which draft allotments to the states are based have been padded in such wise as to reduce the just quotas of southern states and to impose on northern states the unfair duty of making up the deficiencies.

If a less incontinent partisan and south-baiter than Senator Lodge or a less sordid party man than Senator Brandegee constituted the head and front of such a protest it would have better weight, though on the other hand if they stood alone in making it the charge would be much less impressive than it is, for they do not stand alone.

It is a matter that ought to be looked into with good temper and fairness, but with settled purpose to get at the truth. The senate has taken such steps and properly so. If there is any design to permit the southern states to slack in the raising of armies it ought to be made clear to the country. If the charges are merely partisan it will be well to expose the men who are seeking to turn conditions to such account.

There should be no delay getting at the thing. It is sure to provoke feeling not salutary at this time.

And poor Gumshoe Bill Stone—from Missouri, you know—is now troubled in his heart and cast down in his mind about what is going to become of "this old charter of our liberties" after the war is over. Cheer up, Bill. The palladium saw darker days than these in another war, of which you know something.

Making the world safe for democracy is a piker's issue alongside the question of making America safe for old John Barleycorn.

BETTER SHOP EFFICIENCY IS A PATRIOTIC DUTY IN TIME OF NATIONAL STRESS

BY GEORGE F. CARD.

A great deal is being said and written these days about the conservation of food supplies and the elimination of all kinds of waste. In normal times this is a good doctrine to preach but now, in the midst of a world war that may lengthen into years and tax every resource of our country it assumes far greater importance than the mere increase of individual or corporate profits and becomes a patriotic duty.

Perhaps no field offers greater opportunities to develop pay dirt through a systematic effort than does industrial occupations of all kinds. Factories are already beginning to feel the scarcity of help and after one or two levels of drafted men are withdrawn from them the pinch will become acute and a remedy urgently sought for. Women will replace men in large numbers as they are doing in other countries, but with all the help they can give the manufacture of war supplies will still be too slow, because anything short of immense quantities beyond the most reckless consumption when needed may spell disaster. The logical thing to do in this emergency is to get greater production from a given floor space and a given number of employees. Not by harsh measures of driving, that is obsolete, but by a systematic and thorough investigation of methods, processes, machines and men, to the end that standards may be established and wastes of all kinds eliminated. Wastes of mental and physical effort, wastes of material, wastes of transportation, wastes of motion, and numerous other wastes, so prevalent in our factories, that must eventually, war or no war, be turned into a profit to save the business from competitive financial disaster.

Large losses are of minor importance because they are usually seen and quickly taken care of. It is the small losses, those inconspicuous as unit losses, but large in the aggregate that cause most trouble. A few seconds or even a minute or two lost while performing an operation, while setting a tool, or while handling material may seem a trivial thing and unworthy special attention, and would be if infrequent, but when repeated a great many times the sum of the minutes and seconds so lost often reach a figure, in dollars and cents, that is startling. In the course of an investigation by the writer, one operation was found to take one and a half minutes. This was the average of fifty stop-watch readings taken at fifty machines. Thirty-eight per cent of these readings did not exceed forty-five seconds and one minute would have been a liberal time allowance. Talking one and a half minutes, however, as a basis and using conservative figures for the other factors the yearly cost, in time alone, for this one operation was found to be $41,700. Since some of these operations were a necessary part of the process a further investigation was made and the unavoidable cost fixed at $20,799, leaving for unnecessary operations (which might have been eliminated by a little investigation and common sense action), the sum of $20,901. Most operations of this kind can be figured as a detached business by introducing the proportionate cost for burden, material, etc., belonging to them, which emphasizes the importance of little losses better than can be done in any practical way. In this case the little insignificant one and a half minute business reached the snug sum of $104,950 per year. To put the matter in a more practical way, if these unnecessary operations were eliminated and the time taken applied on necessary operations each operator in the department would receive $147 a year additional pay and the company benefited by the profits on 2,000,000 more parts.

This waste has been going on for years because seemingly large matters were demanding attention and no one had time to "pick up pins." A further interesting thing happened in this connection. About a month after this investigation there came an unexpected increase in the production of these parts. No one seemed to know the reason why and the guesses advanced were all wide of the mark. The usual reason, however, seemed to prevail, that is, that some person in the past had been negligent and some other person in the present more attentive to business. As a matter of fact no individual was directly responsible for either the good or bad showing. It came about in another department where certain operations were better performed (no one knew how or why) which made unnecessary 27 per cent of the work on the operation in question, which followed.

In other words, through a lucky combination of conditions, that just happened, and about which no one had the requisite information to insure a duplication, the company was saving at the rate of $5,300 a year and the operators were receiving a proportionate increase in pay. Some years ago in one of the factories of the International Harvester company a scientific investigation into working conditions and the soldiering of employees (where the average unit of loss was only 74 minutes) resulted in the direct saving of $89,610 per year. Numerous other instances can be cited of large savings effected through a close investigation of working conditions, and the sum total of small losses to be found in every factory, not operated under modern supervision would (if uncovered) startle the management into immediate action. If any manager or superintendent doubts this a simple inexpensive experiment can be tried to prove it. Select some employee who is a good observer. Give him a stop watch and pad with instructions to note down, haphazard as they occur, the following things: Time lost by employees soldiering immediately following and just previous to the whistle for each half day's work.

Delayed production on account of shortages of material or parts that were neglected or improperly scheduled. Machine losses because of bad location, inefficient handling of material about them or the use of wrongly designed tools at improper feeds and speeds. A good observer will see many other things that are not as they should be (which could be made so with a little ingenuity and attention) but these three will be enough to keep him busy and should furnish material for a very interesting report. In several factories where this experiment was tried it was thought best to suppress the report until changes could be made to improve conditions. Stockholders and directors have a habit of asking impatient questions about matters that don't concern them. There is another feature about this efficiency business that should appeal strongly to young men ambitious to improve their condition, and that is the increasing demand for qualified men to fill the various positions necessary for the successful operation of specialized management. I am advised by four of the largest employment agencies in the west that they are unable to get enough production engineers, time and motion study experts, cost accountants, stock keepers familiar with economic systems of symbolizing, and functional foremen with experience, to supply the demand. The pay is attractive, varying from $1,500 to $5,000 per year and the work is intensely interesting and satisfying to anyone who has the faculty to distinguish between ways for doing things that will be cheaper and quicker than the old way, and ways that look attractive but are not practical.

One of the largest concerns in Chicago finding it impossible to secure men from the outside to fill these positions has started a school of their own for the education of young men and advertises for high school graduates to take special training in production, inspection and accounting work.

All the leading papers in the country frequently carry want ads for help of this kind, and the Sunday issue of a Chicago paper recently contained eleven opportunities to secure efficiency positions, and not a single advertisement by men wanting them.

A runaway horse and buggy belonging to Simon Kane created a sensation for a short time Saturday night at the corner of Main street and Broadway.

Roy Keator, son of T. P. Keator, formerly editor of the Gazette, is one of the Chicago delegates to the convention of bicyclists now being held in Washington.

Nick Loring, of New Haven, who recently met with injuries on the Nickel Plate, had another operation performed Saturday evening, when half of his left hand was amputated. Tuesday previous he had his little finger cut off.

Tomorrow, if the weather is favorable, a party of our citizens will have a basket picnic up the St. Joe river. Those who will participate in the affair are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rehling, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Hagerfeld, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hagerfeld, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schoppman, Miss Mary Keil, Ed Borkmeier and Louis Hagerfeld.

Elsewhere in The Sentinel will be found an advertisement for sealed proposals to gather and dispose of the city's garbage. So far the garbage ordinance has not been as beneficial as its advocates anticipated. The ordinance is all right, but the force of garbage gatherers is not equal to the work and as a result accumulations of a week or ten days sometimes occur.

James Omelson, a 15-year-old lad whose parents live on South Wayne avenue, met with a severe accident Saturday at the John Presler shops. He was engaged in cleaning bathtubs with gasoline and his clothes were saturated with the oil. In walking about he stepped on a parlor match and the spark set fire to his trousers. Before the flames were extinguished his legs were severely burned.

There are 350 species of parrots, chiefly confined to the warm parts of America, Asia, Africa and Australia. There is none in Europe and none in Asia west of the Indies; and while numerous in the Malay archipelago, they are wanting in China, Cochin China and the Philippine islands. The only species native to the United States is the Carolina parrot.

GETTING ACQUAINTED!

YOUNG HUSBAND PUTS SELF IN FRIGID ZONE As Heat of Wrangle Cools His Wife Thinks Less of City Court.

Earl Richie, 23, of 2204 West Park avenue, shut himself out in the cold when he called police to quell a disturbance at his house Monday evening.

Richie signed an affidavit charging Jess Gelsman, his brother-in-law, with assault and battery. Richie charged that Gelsman struck Mrs. Richie, who is Gelsman's sister. All anger between brother and sister had died away over the night. The sister was moved to tears when she saw her brother in the prisoner's row Tuesday morning. She went to him and kissed him fervently. When called to testify she said that there was nothing to the story that her brother had attacked her. Richie said that Gelsman came to their joint home in an intoxicated state Monday evening and abused Mrs. Richie. Gelsman testified that he was not so drunk but that he could walk straight Monday and that Richie had overdrawn all facts.

Gelsman was found guilty of the assault charge. The case was continued indefinitely. The quartet of Mr. and Mrs. Gelsman and Earl Richie and wife left the police station at the same time. But not in a body. Earl Richie was ignored. His wife spurned his efforts to talk with her. He was forced to go his way alone. Another Slacker? Mike Kelley, of Boston, claims he is 15 years old. He appeared much older to officers who arrested him on a following charge Monday. He admits he did not register for draft. Judge Kern thinks he may be a slacker. He brought the young man over to Federal Commissioner T. J. Logan for more thorough investigation. Good in Figures. Ollie Hughes, 27, colored, is a shrewd fellow. He refused to testify in police court, Tuesday, when charged, with embezzlement. He was bound to higher court under $300 bond. The story of his difficulty is related by the police as follows: He went into a grocery store in Grand one day last week. "Gimme twenty dollars," he said. "The storekeeper counted out twenty bones. Hughes gave the man a check on the Wolf & Desautel store for twenty. Later it was found that the check was for twenty cents and Hughes was gone with twenty dollars. The colored man was arrested by Detective Sergeant Junk when he returned to Fort Wayne from Peru. Other Police Court Cases. Curtis Weaver was charged with having been intoxicated in the Nickel Plate depot, on Monday. He was not drunk, he stated. The whisky bottle taken from his hip-pocket had become uncorked and had emptied itself, he explained. He was fined $10 and costs. William Poulson was fined $1 and costs on a like charge. William Poist was released after pleading guilty to a drunk complaint. Charles Smith, charged with wife neglect, was ordered to pay $4 a week towards the keeping of his family. Ray Dudley, charged with train climbing, was allowed to leave town.

WARNING AGAINST TRACHOMA IN ARMY

Recruiting Officers Are Urged to Be Vigilant to Keep It Out.

Washington, July 17.—A warning against the acceptance by recruiting officers of applicants for naval or military service who may be suffering from trachoma was issued today by the public health service. "The history of European wars," reads the statement, "shows that trachoma has been a grave menace to the efficiency of fighting forces, invalidating thousands of men and blinding large numbers of its victims. Despite the confusing and contradictory statements in connection with trachoma the contagious character of the disease is unquestionable." One hundred years ago, the statement continued, one Belgian soldier in every five suffered from the malady and "the English, Prussian, Russian and other armies suffered from the ravage of this disease." Careful examination of the eyes of all applicants is urged. "An applicant who is found to be suffering with a well marked trachoma," the statement reads, "should not be immediately rejected, but should be given treatment and his trachoma cured. He can then be again examined to determine whether he has retained visual defects sufficient to cause his rejection. In this way, a case of contagious disease will be eliminated and probably a good soldier gained."

The Field of Tremendous Accomplishment in Money Accumulation

For the small investor is in plain old-fashioned hoarding at a bank.

The attitude savings depositors take in looking to the principal and trying to build it big, accomplishes more than the small investor. The small investor sacrifices safety for high interest. His ambitions seem to be centered on an abundant earning power from a small principal.

Many home enterprises, however, are worthy of financial support, and to those wishing to make investments we shall be glad to advise fully.

Mamo is the name of a beautiful bird of the Hawaiian islands, now believed to be extinct, having been destroyed for the sake of its golden-yellow feathers, used in former days to decorate the state robes of chiefs. The little parrots called "lala" birds, are natives of Africa and are abundant in Madagascar. These birds adapt themselves readily to captivity. They breed readily in confinement, producing two broods in a season.

MR. J. HOWARD ALLEN.

MRS. J. HOWARD ALLEN.

A lovely home wedding took place on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. J. Steele, 2118 Maumee avenue, when her daughter, Miss Nellie M. Steele, became the bride of Mr. J. Howard Allen, formerly of Dallas, Texas, but now of Cincinnati, O. Rev. L. M. Kridler was the officiating minister and there were about thirty-five guests, including relatives, present. The bride party entered the parlor where the marriage service took place just before half past 4 o'clock, the hour of the wedding, and too their places in front of an altar of green and under a white wedding veil. Palms and ferns with a standard vase of daisies made a most attractive setting for the pretty bride and her attendants, who were Miss Agnes Rush as honor maid and Miss Eva Abbott, of Bluffton, as bridesmaid. The ring bearer was Helen Abbott, also a niece to the bride, and she held the wedding rings, with which both bride and groom pledged their troth. In a basket of forget-me-nots, the wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Moore Steele, who played the bridal music from "Lohengrin" as the bride party entered the room, producing in coloring a rainbow effect. Miss Anna Deuter sang "O Promise Me" just before the wedding and during the ceremony. "I Love You Truly." After the marriage service Miss Julia Gottle of Bluffton, played. The bride wore a becoming gown of white khaki-kool and georgette crepe combined and wore a veil of tulle held in place with a band of pearls. The bride carried a nosegay of white roses, wrens and tulle. Miss Rush wore a pink net over silk and held a bouquet of pink snapdragon blossoms. The bridesmaid wore a white georgette crepe gown and held a beautiful bouquet of yellow roses made with a shower of maline, and her sister who was flower maid, wore white organdie with white maline bows to set it off. The bride carried the train with her oldest brother, Mr. Moore Steele, who gave her in marriage and another brother, Mr. Lawrence Steele, was best man. The wedding feast was served at 8 o'clock. The table was trimmed with white tulle with vases of pink sweet-peas to lend color. The chandelier above had a shower of pink ribbon suspended from it. Other rooms were decorated with many daisies. The bride and groom are to go directly to Cincinnati, O., to live as Mr. Allen is employed in the railroad offices of the C. H. & D. railroad as traffic salesman. For traveling the bride will wear a black serge suit with white hat, shoes, gloves and bag. The bride is a young woman of sweet character and refined manner and is much admired by many friends. The acquaintance between the bride and groom began a year ago on a pleasure trip when mutual friends introduced them. Guests from away included the bride's sister, Mrs. Thomas Gordon and daughter, Doris, and Misses Helen, Eva, Lois and Florence Abbott, also relatives and all of Bluffton; Mrs. Abbott McGill, of Sargis, Mich.; Miss Helen Scherer, of Tiffin, O., and Mrs. Harrah Giddeon, of Payne, O.

(BY BIDDY BYE.)

With the invention of new canning processes, many new words have been added to the housekeeper's cooking vocabulary. By studying these new terms and the general principles of canning, any woman will be able to do her share for her country, day by day, a can at a time, without martyring herself to the canning season. She will be able to put up sweet corn, string beans, carrots, peas and other starchy vegetables, an accomplishment to which her grandmother aspired but never acquired, because she never knew the meaning or importance of "sterilizing," "blanching," etc. To help those who have never canned before, as well as those who are familiar with only the old-fashioned processes, the following list of new canning terms, with definitions, has been compiled:

Scalding—To dip a fruit or vegetable in boiling water in order to remove the skin without loss of pulp, to eliminate acids, and stop flow of coloring matter. Blanching—To boil very quickly for a brief period, to harden tissue, set color, and eliminate bitter substances from the fruit or vegetable. Blanched vegetables pack more closely in the jars than do others. Cold Dip—Rapid cooling of fruits and vegetables after scalding or blanching, by plunging in cold water. The cold dip helps to separate the skin from the pulp, to set color and harden tissue. Sterilizing—To boil fruit or vegetables for a certain period after the container has been sealed, in order to kill the bacteria which if alive cause food to spoil. Processing—Another word for sterilizing, boiling or cooking, used especially in connection with commercial canning outfits. Cold Pack—Method of canning in which container is filled with uncooked, blanched food, which is then sterilized in the can set in a water bath. Open Kettle—Old method of cooking food on top of stove, then pouring into sterilized jars. Still considered very good in making marmalades and other concentrated fruit preserves.

fectiveness. For there are many things of exceeding simplicity which are greatly needed by the Red Cross and other relief societies, and which the child can well do.

Perhaps the point to fix in mind, before choosing what shall be made, is how it is to be made. The pattern should not be too large or small for possible use. The materials, too, should be of good quality.

If your child can knit there are the abdominal bands, for which yarn that is all wool should be used instead of that which is partly cotton and wool, for the difference in the resultant warmth is enormous. In making bandages use unbleached muslin, which is inexpensive, but do not use cheesecloth.

The making of bandages is very interesting and can be done by the very little girl. All that is necessary is a small machine, for rolling which is not very expensive. This machine is essential for nurses and physicians cannot use the hand-rolled bandages, as they are not sufficiently firm or even. There is a greater need of bandage rolls than of any other single article, and one cannot make too many of them.

The bandage rollers range in price from $1.75 to $2.75, and are simple little contrivances, having a central rod, ends and a handle for turning. The bandage rolls may be three or four inches wide and seven yards long, and are preferably of unbleached muslin, which costs about 7 or 8 cents a yard. They should be fastened at the ends by a few stitches and should not be pinned.

Simply made, too, are the gauze pads. They are nine inches square, of eight thicknesses, made from a piece of gauze one yard wide and one-half yard long and folded. Cotton swabs, too, can be made by the child whose hands are just beginning to obey her behests. They are merely bits of absorbent cotton, made in circular swabs about an inch in diameter, and at one end twisted up into a tight little handle.

The bandages should be done up in packages of twelve and firmly tied, and the pads in tied packages of twenty-five. Handkerchiefs of muslin are very acceptable and are made of plain square pieces, simply hemmed at the edges.

FASHIONS FOR FALL WILL FOLLOW PRACTICAL LINES.

Although the style trend for next fall in women's suits has not yet settled down to one distinct design, the sentiment is that they will be made on most practical lines. The manufacturers say that to be successful the fashions devised for the new season must be along most practical lines. The manufacturers believe that if such lines are followed they will be decidedly in keeping with the spirit of the times. Plain and simple effects, with some new and distinctive note in their general treatment, are expected to be the result of the trade's planning. It seems quite certain that the manufacturers will not be as lavish in the use of fur trimmings as they were last year. The lesson brought home to them at that time was evidently that women will not take a cheap cloth garment for the sake of a bit of saving.

MEATLESS MEALS Good for Health

(BY BIDDY BYE.) War diet happens to be health diet in hot weather. Meatless meals for mid-summer are recommended by all domestic science teachers but just what attractive dish to substitute for meat often confuses the housekeeper. Some unusual dishes which will be sure to please the most finicky appetite are here offered for testing:

TURKISH MACARONI.

Break a pound of macaroni into inch pieces and boil until tender. Drain and rinse in cold water. Add a pint of strained tomatoes thickened with two tablespoons each of flour and butter, salt and pepper to taste, and one-half cup blanched almonds cut into strips. Simmer all together for fifteen minutes, turn into a hot dish, sprinkle thickly with grated cheese and serve.

PEANUT SAUSAGE.

Cream together a level teaspoonful peanut butter and two tablespoons cold water. Add three tablespoons grated bread crumbs, a pinch of salt and a teaspoon minced onion or powdered sage. Mix well. Form into small cakes, placing them in a well heated oiled tin. Put in a hot oven. Turn frequently till browned on all sides. Serve on a hot platter, garnished with parsley. When serving add browned sauce made as follows: Put a teaspoon butter in a hot frying pan and brown slightly. Add a pint of milk and heat to boiling. Thicken with two tablespoons browned flour, rubbed to a smooth paste in cold water or milk.

POLENTA.

For this savory Italian dish use a tablespoon butter, a teaspoon salt and three pints boiling water, sprinkling in two cups of corn meal. Cook an hour. Fill a dish with this, alternating with one cup each of gravy and tomato sauce. Cover with grated cheese and brown in the oven.

VERDUN LIVES FAR UNDER GROUND AS BOMBARDMENT GOES ON ABOVE

The Little Theater for Soldiers in the Underground City of Verdun.

(Staff Correspondence). Verdun, France, July 17.—The war has converted Verdun into an underground city.

Ninety feet into the earth, beneath the shell torn area that is still being bombarded by huge shells from German 46's, 50,000 civilians and allied soldiers live and enjoy themselves.

Verdun, once one of the most imposing cities of northeastern France, and one of the four most powerful fortresses on the Franco-German border, exists no longer above the ground. For more than a year it has been lying in ruins and scarcely with human habitation, while the Germans kept up their ceaseless and unavailing pour of shells into the city.

It gave the French defenders time to dig down into the rock and stone beneath the citadel of Verdun and construct another city ninety feet under ground, safe from the constant shell fire above.

The new city now houses the population of Verdun besides soldiers on leave from fighting above. Fifty thousand people go about their daily tasks in the light of electric and oil lamps, and only when the din of battle lets up a bit do they venture above for a short glimpse of sunlight and a snatch of pure air.

Every convenience of a modern city, on the earth's surface, can be found here in underground Verdun, even to the little cozy theater where the soldiers are permitted free to be entertained and distracted from the horrors of the battlefield above.

IN THE CHURCHES

ST. JOHN REFORMED ELECTS NEW PASTOR

Rev. William C. Beckman, of Dundas, Ill., Choice of the Members.

Rev. William C. Beckman, of Dundas, Ill., R. F. D. No. 2, was elected pastor of St. John Reformed church immediately after he preached his trial sermons Sunday morning. He was elected by an overwhelming vote of the members present upon recommendation by the consistory.

Although he has not yet accepted the members he has not as yet accepted the call. It is the general opinion, however, that he will come to take charge of the large congregation as soon as possible.

Rev. Beckman has been in the ministry for several years. He delivered a sermon in both the German and English language at the morning services last Sunday.

DISMAL PICTURE BY A GERMAN NEWSPAPER

Unless Teutons Win World Will Have Anglo-American Domination.

Amsterdam, June 30.—(Correspondence).—A writer in the Junker or Kan Kreuz-Zeitung of Berlin draws a dismal picture of the consequences to Germany of a peace without increased power and annexations. He says: "Seeing that after the natural exhaustion of such a giant war, Germany could not soon contemplate a fresh struggle, Great Britain and America would think, after a Scheide-man peace, they could treat Germany as they liked. In other words an Anglo-American world domination would be firmly established and Germany itself would be regarded as a second rate power. Great Britain thereby in reality attaining its war aim."

"Belief in unlimited military and maritime superiority by Britain and North America would henceforth dominate the world. But a reaction, through an unsatisfactory peace, on our internal political life would be the worst result. With the first joy at the ending of the war the question would be earnestly asked—what have we really fought for, why have so many Germans fallen, why these giant taxes, this ruined German welfare? The ground is then prepared for disintegrating social democracy."

TELLS OF HIS SAFE ARRIVAL

George J. Jordan, of This City, is With U. S. Marines in France.

WORD IS RECEIVED FROM CAPT. POWELL

Young Man Graduated from Fort Wayne High School in 1910.

Fort Wayne has one representative, at least, who is now, or soon will be engaged, actively, in the great struggle that is being waged across the sea. He is George J. Jordan, son of

GEORGE J. JORDAN.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Jordan, of 501 Fourth street, and a member of the United States Marine corps, which was a part of the first division of soldiers to be sent to France from this country. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan received notice from Captain Ross E. Powell, of the United States Marine corps, now in charge of the bureau of marines, that their son had safely arrived in France. The exact point of course, was not divulged. The letter from Captain Powell reads as follows:

"You will be interested in knowing that your son has crossed the ocean safely, and is now in France. You will no doubt be pleased to put the enclosed card in your window. It will distinguish your home from others in the neighborhood. It means that a man in your house has given his all to his country."

CAPT. ROSS E. POWELL.

In charge of Bureau.

The card referred to in the letter of Captain Powell is a poster giving the information that an inmate of the house in which it is displayed is a part of the United States forces in France. The card is now proudly placed in the window of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan's home.

George J. Jordan has lived in Fort Wayne all his life. He graduated from the Fort Wayne high school in 1910, and then attended Purdue university, graduating from that institution in the class of 1914, civil engineering. He was employed by the government as an engineer after his graduation. He was always intensely interested in military affairs. At the outbreak of the Mexican trouble, he went to the border as a member of the Illinois Engineers, Company A. He enlisted June 22, 1916, in Chicago and was given his honorable discharge October 17, 1916. After his discharge from the Illinois engineers, he was employed by the government on an engineering job at El Paso, Texas. He enlisted in the marine corps in South Carolina, and went in training at Fort Parris, Georgia. Three weeks ago his family received a letter from him stating that he was on board ship, bound for France. This was the last word from the young man until the letter from the marine bureau announcing his safe arrival at the front.

Jordan is 27 years of age. He has been a resident of Fort Wayne all his life, excepting the time spent at school and that spent in active service of his country on the Mexican border. He has many warm friends in this city, who will watch with interest the career of the young marine, who has given his all to "help make the world safe for democracy."

DARK EVENING AID TO AUTO THIEVES

Two automobiles were moved away into the covering shelter of darkness during Monday evening which was marked by a clouded sky. One car was taken from a garage and the other from the street curbing near the show grounds.

Mike Cusoff, grocer, 1302 Gay street, reported to the police Tuesday that his auto delivery car had been taken from his garage sometime Monday night. Bert Hatcher left his small machine stand near the show grounds on South Calhoun street Monday evening. Later the car was gone.

The police are following many clues but have made no arrests as yet and have not located either of the stolen machines.

Ancient Hebrew prisons contained a special chamber for the pillory. This was termed "the house of the pillory." (II Chronicles xvi, 10.)

RALPH LOSE ACCEPTED FOR MOSQUITO FLEET

Fort Wayne Young Man Enters Naval Coast Defense Service.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lose, 213 Douglas avenue, have received a telegram from their son, Ralph D. Lose, telling of his acceptance in the mosquito fleet of the naval coast defense. He left this city last Wednesday for Newport, R. I., where he was accepted.

For three months last summer he served on the Mexican border with Battery B, of the Indiana guard, which was at that time composed of students of Purdue university. He has just completed his second year at the university and applied for the officers' reserve corps. He was accepted but not called because of the fact that older men are being sought. He is just twenty-one years of age.

Summary of the Day's War News

The Russian armies are continuing their vigorous offensive in eastern Galicia and other groups of the empire's vast forces are apparently ready to spring into activity at various points along the 300 mile front. Everything appears to be running smoothly with the military machine, or at least it seems in far more effective shape than even the rosier forecasts indicated.

Meanwhile, Russian governmental affairs, which appeared to have been going well for some time past, are again ruffled with a cabinet disagreement. Four ministers, including Finance Minister Shingareff, have resigned because of objections to the policy decided upon by the other ministers regarding affairs in the Ukraine which, like Finland, has desires for an independent government. A meeting of the council of ministers has been called to solve the crisis and it is hoped the resignations will be withdrawn. Coincidentally come reports of disorders in Petrograd instigated by the radical faction of the social democratic party as a demonstration against the government. Rival parties of demonstrators appear to have fired on each other during a panic brought about by a few stray shots and a number of persons were killed or wounded. Quiet was soon restored.

Notwithstanding the change in the German chancellorship and before any declaration of policy has been made by the new occupant of the post, Dr. Georg Michaelis, the reichstag revolt against existing conditions appears to be going on unchecked. The majority in favor of a declaration of peace terms, it is declared, will present their resolution on Thursday, the day the new chancellor is scheduled to speak, and will demand that he accept the declaration in principle before they agree to co-operate with him.

The early days of the war, when German shipping was being combed up on the seven seas by the British fleet, are recalled by today's announcement from London of the capture of four German steamers by British destroyers. The captures were effected in the North sea. None of the quartet was a large vessel, the average of the four being about 1,300 tons. They were accompanied by two other German steamers. All made for shore when signalled and the two that finally reached the Dutch coast were badly damaged by gun fire.

An important success has been won by the French in the Verdun region. As the result of an attack last night all the positions west of hill 304 which remained in German hands after the attack of June 23 and 24, were recovered. German prisoners to a number not yet ascertained by the French high command, were taken in the action. In the Champagne the Germans made another attack last night in an attempt to retake their lost observation positions at the Teton height. General Petain's troops repulsed the assaulting forces.

WERE SOL ESURVIVORS.

An Atlantic Port, July 17.—A gunner and a fireman who said they were the only survivors of the British steamer Daleby, which they reported was sunk May 29 by a German U-boat, were picked up May 30 in a life boat by a British ship which arrived here today. It was reported by officers. The rescue was made, the officers said, on a trip to England. The Daleby was a vessel of 3,423 tons gross.

The weekly output of British machine guns during 1915-16 was more than fourteen times what it was during 1914-15.

AIRMEN OF UNITED STATES AVIATION CORPS USING A LEWIS MACHINE GUN

The Lewis machine gun, invention of Colonel Isaac Lewis, of the United States army, which the United States rejected and finally adopted after it proved a valuable aid to British flyers, is here shown manned by a United States aviator. This gun is one of the latest types of government hydroplanes, most of which will be equipped with Lewis guns.

CORPORATIONS MORE THAN 500 APPLIED ARE SLACKING

Millions of Dollars of Red Cross Dividends Are Held Out.

HAVE BEEN VOTED BY STOCKHOLDERS

Red Cross Needs the Money and Makes Appeal for Early Payment.

New York, July 17.—The fact that millions of dollars in Red Cross dividends declared by corporations have not been paid over to the organization was made known in an appeal to the shareholders in such corporations issued here today by the American Red Cross war finance committee to do their part in helping the men "who in the misery and sadness of the firing line look to us for aid."

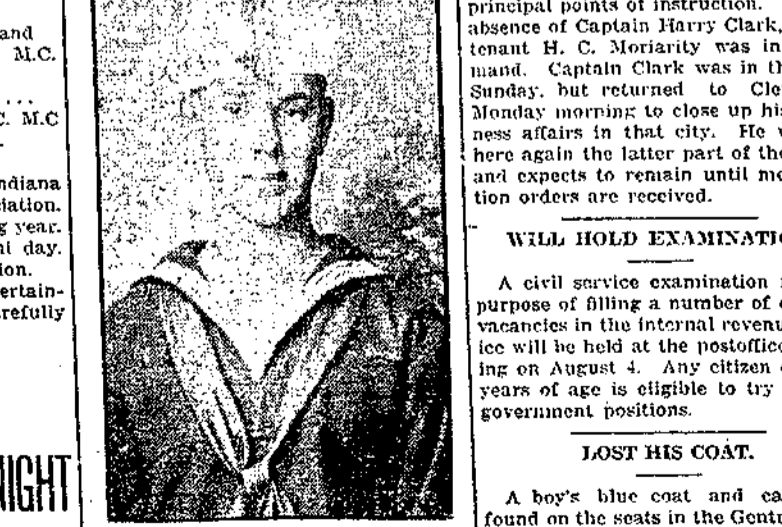

The French prepared for many wounded for the spring offensive, it is pointed out, "and to prepare for our wounded the Red Cross must avail itself of every dollar it can get."

"For want of something better, newspapers have been used to tie up the wounds of soldiers abroad. When our boys are wounded—and surely they will be—are we going to let them suffer still more through our neglect? To withhold a Red Cross dividend means withholding relief from our wounded."

WHO CARRIED AWAY PART OF SHOW TENT?

Police are striving to fathom the mystery of the missing canvas. A part of the Chautauque tent is lacking, it was noticed Tuesday, when the tent was being put up. It is not known whether the section of tent was stolen in Fort Wayne or while the big canvas was en route to the city or whether the top section has been lost by faulty packing.

BAKER DENIES TAMPERING.

Chicago, July 17.—Denial of alleged tampering charges was made by J. Franklin Baker, third baseman with the New York Americans, in letters to President Johnson, of the American league, today. Baker said that instead of attempting to induce Allen Schlorer, of the St. Louis club, to jump his contract, he had strongly urged the young pitcher to remain with St. Louis. Baker, failing to reply to President Johnson's first letter, had been given twenty-four hours in which to answer the charges.

WATCH WAS THERE.

When John Johnson, carpenter, 452 Lasalle street, watched the Gentry Bros.' show Monday evening someone drew his coat from his knees, where he had folded it. The garment disappeared between the seats, Johnson told the police. His gold watch was in a pocket of the coat.

AMBULANCE CALLED FOR

Fort Wayne's Donation is to Be Sent to Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

MRS. J. H. GILPIN RECEIVES ORDERS

War Department Will Use Gift at the Training Camp in East.

The motor driven ambulance which Fort Wayne donated to the war department is soon to be put into service. Mrs. John H. Gilpin, through whose efforts a sufficient amount was contributed for its purchase, received orders Tuesday morning to forward the ambulance to Gettysburg, Pa. The freight bill accompanied the order from the war department. While no definite time was specified for its delivery, it is assumed that the ambulance is wanted at once.

The big car will be shipped immediately to the training camp, where it will be put through some strenuous tests before being sent across the seas for use on the battlefields of Europe. The insignia "Fort Wayne" on the side of the ambulance in big white letters will remain. The officials of the war department have already expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Gilpin and the citizens of Fort Wayne for the generosity and patriotism they have shown by the donation of the ambulance.

WILL RUN EXCURSION TO FORT HARRISON

Traction Company Offers Rates to Training Camp Visitors.

An inexpensive opportunity to visit friends and relatives in training at Fort Benjamin Harrison will be offered by the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company next Sunday. Special rates will be offered on tickets to the training camp and to Indianapolis for the day. The round trip fare to Fort Harrison will be $1.75 and to Indianapolis $2.

The special rates will be good only on limited trains leaving this city at 6, 8 and 10 o'clock in the morning, central time, but will be good on any regular car returning that day. No change of cars will be necessary on the trip, and as the cars pass the fort on the way to the city those who wish to spend the entire day at the fort may do so. The excursion is being run as a special accommodation to Fort Wayne people who have friends or relatives at the camp.

Learn Some French Today

ELEVENTH LESSON PREPARED BY MME. ARCHINARD

Where is the first aid station?
Où se trouve le poste de secours?
Oo suh troov luh pust duh suhcoor?

Do the field ambulances go that far?
Les ambulances vont-elles jusque la?
Lays anbsolanse vonf-tell jüs-kuh-lä?

What is your army corps?
De quel corps d'armée êtes-vous?
Duh kell core darmay et voo?

Where did the Zeppelin fall?
Où est tombe le Zeppelin?
Oo ay tonbä luh Zeppelin?

In these lessons the English sent once appears in the first line, the French equivalent in the second and the pronunciation in the third line. In the pronunciation key, straight lines over the letters A and U denote the long sound, as in "late" and "blue"; curved lines over these letters denote the short sound, as in "hat" and "but"; two dots over the U indicate a sound somewhat like the German "ue," which Americans may approach by pronouncing long U and long B at the same time. Cut out these lessons and paste them in your note book.

The purpose here is merely to give the young men who may serve with the army in France such a knowledge of French as will make simple wants known and some sort of friendly intercourse with French people and soldiers possible. No attempt is made to teach the grammar of the language.

Leather Punishing Contest Taken by Essick's Tossers

Hitting Nearly Even But Black Sox Make Their Blows Count.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 17.—Fort Wayne and Grand Rapids got together yesterday and decided to make the day one on which all players could fatten batting averages. Everybody took advantage of the opportunity but Mathes, of the Rapids, who probably doesn't need it. He was up five times and didn't hit once. Harry Smith, of the Chiefs, who tops that club, hit only once out of five times up. Glickson, of the same club, was the hitting demon of the day, getting a home run over the left field wall which was one of the hardest blows ever seen on the local lot.

When it was all over a perusal of the box score brought to light the fact that the Black Sox had defeated the Chiefs 5 to 4, although they had but two more safe blows than the visitors. Five errors on the part of Vandergriff's employees put the Chiefs on any chances they had of winning. King Bain halted the proceedings for about twenty minutes in the seventh inning.

Scoring started in earnest in the first inning when the locals chalked up two runs. Mitchell, the first man up, singled and completed the circuit on a wild heave by Williams. Carey, who had hit, went to second on the throw and stole third immediately after. Mathes went out but Edgington tripled and Carey went across for the second run.

In the first of the third the visitors came through with five singles, and these together with a fielder's choice gave them three runs and the lead. They held the lead just long enough for the Chiefs to change and then the score was tied by means of a pair of singles, an out, and a couple of choice errors handed out by the Chiefs.

Not a thing happened in the third and fourth rounds, nor in the first half of the fifth. In the last of this round Edgington was passed, advanced on Alcock's out, went further on a wild heave and scored on an error by Smith. Not an error contributed to Brant's run in the sixth, although he was walked to start. Three singles followed which served to put him across. Alcock and Miller went around in the seventh on a hit by the former, a double by the latter, and another double by Devorner. The last run was made in the eighth when Carey bent out an infield scratch, took second on Alcock's triple, and registered on Alcock's triple.

Glickson closed the scoring when he met the horsehide for the blow which was considered one of the longest and hardest ever made in inland park. It sailed high above the left field fence.

DIRT TRACK ARTISTS AT NAPOLEON SUNDAY

Ralph Ormsby Will Drive Against Nipper and
Other Veterans.

Some of the best known and greatest race drivers in the country will start in the races to be held at Napoleon, O., Sunday. All of the dirt track artists from nearby states are entered and will try for the silver cup and the cash prizes which have been offered. Ralph Ormsby, of this city, will drive his Maxwell Special and is hoping for better success than he had on the Fourth of July. That day he was leading the field in the big race when his mount developed engine trouble and he was forced to drop out.

Among the well known drivers who will participate is Billy Nipper, former speedway driver, who will pilot his Nipper Special. This car has been built especially for dirt track work and is said to have worlds of speed. Bill Fritz, of Cincinnati, will start his Dusenberger and Fielding, of Toledo, will be on hand with a Hudson Super-Six.

The list of cars entered is as follows: Chevrolet Special, Bill Dowdy, Bluffton, Ind.; Buick Special, E. C. Hinkle, Indianapolis, Ind.; Purcell Special, H. A. Carroll, Newport, Ky.; Dusenberger, Wild Bill Fritz, Cincinnati, O.; Ford Special, B. F. Davis, Paris, Ill.; Sheets Special, Z. I. ## SPORTS CHATTER

Everybody on the Chiefs hit yesterday, but they couldn't play together enough to win. Maybe there won't be any more changes for a week, though, and they can learn each other's names. After that it should be easy sailing.

Jim Flynn says he'll retire this year for good—cash, perhaps.

With all this stormy weather and upheaval among the owners and managers, it shouldn't be surprising that the Athletics took to the cellar.

Glickson whopped a home run in yesterday's game. Watch your step, old man. Releases are flyin' around.

Jawn McGraw has decided to win back his lines in pennant money.

Nick Altrock doesn't mind saying the Indians look like pennant winners, so long as the Senators can't do it.

Red Ames' jinx still clings to him, although there are lots of other players who need it to bring them down from their perch.

Better look out for the Reds, while Marty is leering them. They're not saying a thing, but—

Tag Caldwell is going to the Browns for Dell Pratt! The cellar is where the ball boy belongs, anyway.

"SCRAPPY" MOORE, BRANCH RICKEY'S SECOND GEORGE SISLER, MAY GO BACK ON HIM BY END OF THE SEASON

(By Paul Purnham.)
It will take the balance of this baseball season to decide whether or not Branch Rickey, developer of young college stars, was right or wrong when he picked Scrappy Moore as a second George Sisler. Rickey found Moore at Vanderbilt university, where he was a star at football, baseball and track athletics. At the time he signed Moore he was a scout for the St. Louis Browns. Later Rickey went to the Cardinals and made an effort to take the youngster with him but failed.

If Moore ever attains the baseball prominence of Sisler it will be a great surprise to critics who have seen him in action.

This does not necessarily mean that Moore will fall as a big leaguer for he shows indications of being a first-class infielder, but Sisler and Cubs appear about once in a generation, and Moore does not appear to be one of these.

All of which shows that even an expert like Rickey can fall down once in a while.

Three-year-old race features day's sked.

Cleveland, O., July 17.—Five races are scheduled for today's grand circuit card as a result of the large number of entries in the 2:19 trot, which has forced the splitting of this event into two divisions.

The feature event is the first division of the Pacer $2,500 sweepstakes for 3-year-old trotters and Kelly De Forest, piloted by Murphy, is expected to be installed favorite. Colleen probably will be the choice in the 2:05 pace.

Although Gen. Todd is sure to have some enthusiastic backers, Colleen has made a fine showing in the two-earners and is a consistent racer, while the Todd horse is termed a bad actor. In the 2:10 pace of the nine entries Edward P., Battle King and Butts Hale are touted as the class, although all of the contestants are pretty evenly matched. Nine horses will get the word in the first division of the 2:19 trot, which apparently will be an open race. The horses are evenly matched and the talent will have some trouble installing a favorite.

Favorites fall in opening of Grand Circuit at North Randall.

Kindred Souls by Berton Braley

The white breakers crashed heavily upon the smooth beach. The sea stretched away illimitable, immense.

"Gee, ain't the ocean grand," said Hortense Hantons, the young society queen, as she reclined luxuriously in her own specially imported sand.

"Yes, ain't it," responded Clarence Ponsonby D'Artagan, heir to a hundred millions.

"How wonderful it is!" exclaimed Hortense, "to find a kindred soul, how marvelous that the first time I meet a guy like you I find you sympathetic in admiration of this sea shore stuff!"

"Kid," replied Clarence, passionately, "the minute I seen you I knew our tastes was synonymous."

"Daughter," he said, ominously, "Who is this wower?"

The stern figure of Hortense's father appeared on the scene in a sumptuous bathing suit of red and purple stripes three inches wide.

"Daughter," he said, ominously, "who is this wower?"

"I," said Clarence, rising haughtily to his feet, "am Clarence Ponsonby D'Artagan, of the Ponsonby D'Artagans, of Ponsonby Manor, Ponsonby Parish, Ponsonby County, North Carolina, and your obedient servant."

"All right," said father, "if you're my obedient servant, run up to the hotel and get me a cocktail. This sea air is sojournly great for the thirst."

An hour has passed, and Clarence has not returned. Hortense's father licks his lips with a dry and parched tongue. Presently he rises and saunters toward the hotel, where he finds Clarence in the bar, putting away his fifth Bronx. Hello, old party," cries Clarence. "What'll it be?" "Make it the same," says Father. For they, too, are kindred souls.

Hortense remains reclining luxuriously in her own imported sand and the sea still stretches away, illimitable, immense.

Of Inter-Lake Yachting Association
Opens at Put-in-Bay Today.

Put-in-Bay, Ohio, July 17.—The annual regatta of the Inter-Lake Yachting association got fully under way here this morning with the first of the series of sail yacht races.

In spite of the belief that the war would decrease the number of boats entered, the fleet in the harbor is larger than ever before. The competition in class A between Toledo and Buffalo boats is expected to be the important feature of the sail yacht events.

RELEASE OF EVERS AND SCHULTE ENDS
REIGN OF GREATEST BASEBALL MACHINE

A three line item appeared in the sport pages the other day announcing that Johnny Evers had been released to the Phillies by the Boston Braves.

Some two or three weeks earlier a three line item appeared in the sport pages announcing that Pittsburgh had traded Frank Schulte.

All of which is reminiscent of baseball a decade ago and which shows the fate of the fans, like that of kings, is a transient thing.

Ten years ago Evers was shortstop and Schulte was playing right field for one of the greatest baseball machines the world has ever seen—the Chicago Cubs.

More Baseball Equipment to the Soldiers in France

Clark Griffith Defies Subs
Which Sunk the Initial Shipment.

Chicago, Ill., July 17.—General Pershing's army in France is to have baseballs, bats, mucks and gloves, despite the activities of the German submarines which sent to the bottom of the Atlantic ocean enough baseball supplies to equip 150 clubs when they sunk the American steamship Kamsan. The baseball paraphernalia carried by the Kamsan was sent through the efforts of Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington American league team, who several weeks ago started a chain letter to collect twenty-five cents from each of his friends to supply soldiers in the American army with baseball outfits. When the receipts totaled close to $8,000 Griffith purchased the supplies and started them to France on the Kamsan.

Griffith, who is here today, started another chain letter and asks everyone who contributed on the first call to send in another quarter. When the new subscription reaches a sufficient sum he will start another consignment across the Atlantic.

President Wilson was one of the contributors to the first fund.

IN developing the Firestone Super-size Cord Tire only the facts of road performance dictated manufacturing policy. Perhaps the relentless Firestone road tests are responsible for the marked differences between Firestone Cord Tires and others. Super-size, that is, greater birth and larger air column, is one of these differences. A special arrangement of the cords is another. The Firestone tread compound is another. All of these have been definitely tested and proved by experience, road evidence.

When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. # Defensive Work of the American Coast Guard

Beach Patrol Can Flash Warnings Up and Down the Coast by Signals and Telephone Day or Night to Guard Against Attack.

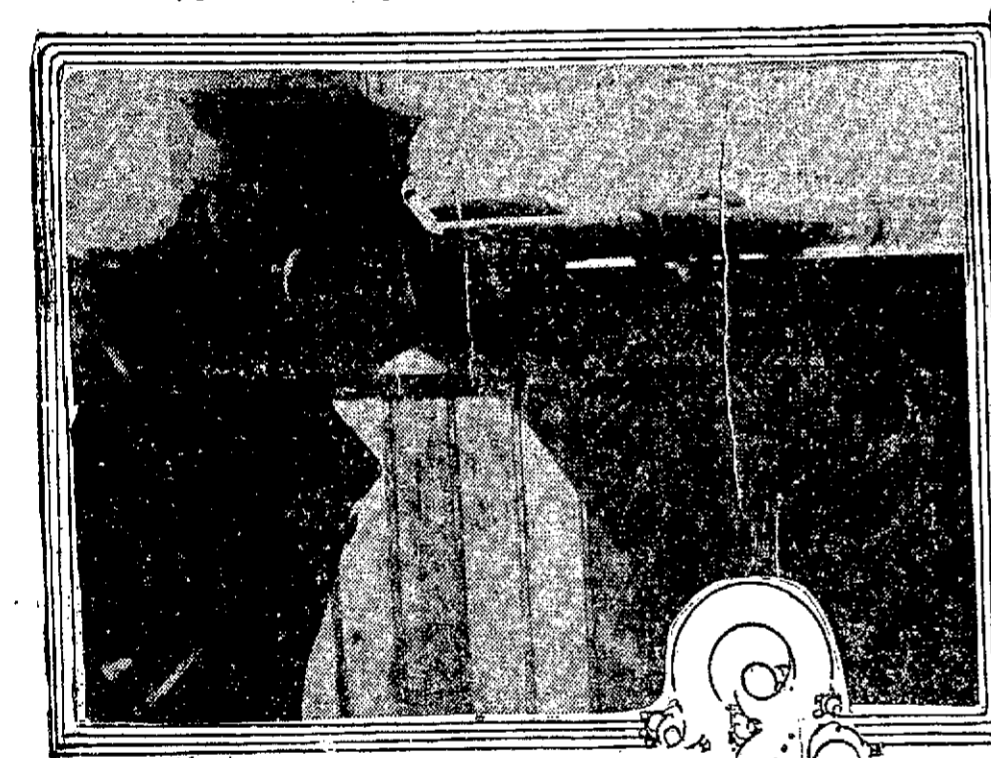

The BEACH CENTRE of the GUARD.

The "BLINKER" LIGHT

CAN SEARCH the SEAS for MILES.

ON WATCH in the COAST GUARD'S TOWER

The OLD LIGHTHOUSE at ATLANTIC CITY.

SIGNALLING by the FLARE TORCH.

THE news that the Coast Guard has been increased in numbers and urged to keep constant watch for untoward incidents at sea calls attention to this devoted but little understood line of defense for the nation.

Night and day the vigil of the Coast Guard goes on. We read of the rescue of the crew of a stranded ship at night and some attention is called to the work of the beach patrol, but sufficient credit is not given to the sleepless watch that the men of the guard maintain over the vast stretches of sea that wash our great coast line.

Now that war has come, the alertness of the Coast Guard is truly valuable to the country, for they will be called upon to keep their powerful telescopes and binoculars constantly turned on the surface of the seas, from Maine to the canal and from Alaska to the lowest wilds of the Western coast line. No one knows what to expect if the war cloud breaks in full storm fury. A resourceful and alert foe may strike without warning, and this makes it imperative that the Coast Guard sentinels keep wide awake. They are amply provided with means to sound instant warning to the defenders of the coast.

By night the beach patrol watches the seas from points distant from the central station. They have to keep alert eyes on lonely inlets where undersea boats could sneak in under cover of darkness; they must search by day for signs of canoes made by sympathizers ashore who may be in touch with the officers of the hostile craft by secret wireless apparatus, for stores of oil or war material accumulated at spots known to the foreign foe, for wireless stations in remote and little frequented sections of the long coast line, on uninhabited islands off the rocky Maine coast, or the sandy desert coast line of the South.

The watch must be constant and sleepless, for it would not be difficult for a submarine to land a party unseen in the wild stretches of almost uninhabited country.

The system of signaling in use by the Coast Guard is the wig-wag method, by day. This can easily be seen from the central station by the sentinel, who keeps his telescope or binoculars constantly roving around the beach on the lookout for just such signs.

But at night only a flashlight signal can be seen. The Coast Guard carries with them a blinker light, a small electric light. This blinker light throws out a small illumination that is used by the dot and dash method, and can be read for a considerable distance by a man with a telescope.

By the blinker light the members of the beach patrol are constantly in touch with the central body at night. Should one of them be suddenly overpowered by a hostile party, the fact that something was wrong would soon become known to the sentinel in the watch tower, for the patrol is required to signal at stated intervals that all is well. The absence of such a signal would put the watcher in the tower on his guard.

But the blinker light would be useless in the hands of a coast guardsman whose beat carried him miles away from the central station to a lonely headland far from any populated section.

In an emergency the patrolman who finds himself confronted with a threatening situation far from the watch tower would use the flare light, a torch that each man carries with him when on patrol and which makes a light that can be seen for miles without the aid of a telescope.

The sudden flaming of this torch would warn the coast for leagues along and prompt an instant springing to arms.

The instant a warning is received at the central station the watcher there will spring to the government telephone and sound a note of alarm to the nearest military station, and so it would travel up and down the coast and reach the heart of the defense system of the country.

This is the regular round of duty of the Coast Guard. But in peace times they merely watch the sea for indications of loss of life by shipwreck and jump to save where it can be done. In war time the work of the guard is vastly more important. Their eyes have been trained for years to catch the smallest indication of the unusual on the surface of the sea, and no landman could be so well equipped to do this all-important line of defense work. But it is probable that the government will call for volunteer Coast Guards to supplement the efforts of the regular patrolmen, whose numbers are all too small for the mammoth work that will be shouldered upon them.

These will be selected from amateur sailors whose eyes have been trained to some extent to know the signs of the sea, from the members of yacht clubs who have offered their services in such gratifying numbers to the government and from the ranks of seafaring men who are accustomed to watch the waves and know what surface indications mean.

All patriotic citizens living along the coast line are depended upon to keep on the alert and report any suspicious signs on the water. Every coast resident is looked upon as a coast guardsman. But upon the old guard that forms the thin line along our beaches depends the discovery and warning of attack from the sea or treachery ashore.

The Coast Guard service hunts trouble both in times of peace and in seasons of war, the latter contingency being in the way of addition of duty, as storms ever are with these men of the first sea trenches.

As soon as a state of war was declared to exist the Coast Guard service automatically became subject to the orders of the Navy Department and the more than 4000 officers and men became a part of the actual fighting forces of the country. In this service are some half hundred cutters, which are effective as the nucleus for an effective antisubmarine fighting force.

Nowhere, with our land or our sea forces, will be found a corps of trained men who will brave greater dangers or who take the casting of their lives into the balance of service so lightly. These men of the Coast Guard are men who have taken the matter of individual risk as a matter of course in the day's work. It is the portion of excitement necessary to keep alive the spark of interest in the breasts of some men.

Yes, they are hunters of trouble. Long night vigils are spent on the lonely stretches of the beach, looking for opportunity to risk life and limb, and the same individual point of view may be expected from these men now that they feel the safety of the nation is in their keeping, just as much as was, and still is, the lives of the unlucky passenger or seaman blown to their shores on the wings of some furious storm.

No less spectacular deeds of bravery and daring need be expected from the men of the Coast Guard cutter service than from their brothers of the land patrol. These men really will be more in the way of fighting than the man who walks his beat along the rocky shores of the land. The little vessels, even in times of peace, go armed in their work of policing the waters, which are under the jurisdiction of the United States, and now that attack is not an impossible thing, they are better prepared to combat some foolish submarine commander who gets too intimate with the affairs of this country.

No one knows just what activities these little patrolmen of the home waters may be going through, but no doubt they may be found valuable not only in seeing to it that dark submers are put at naught, but probably will be of value in laying mines and in other forms of national defense.

After all, the Coast Guard service is an emergency service, and in the hands of intrepid workers who are never at loss how to do a thing nor when. Called on for service, these men act, and usually in the right direction. They have little time to think out lines of campaign and are not of the kind that is given to making serious blunders, in a calling where to blunder is to risk life, not only of the blunderer but of the ones for whose safety they are responsible.

When the nations of the world are brought to peaceful ways no doubt many of the old Coast Guard will have thrilling stories to add to their tales of daring in the garnering of wrecks from the maw of the ocean in days of the past.

Should war come closer to the shores of the United States than now seems probable, it is certain that the great military departments at Washington will keep one ear pretty closely glued to the wires which connect with the Coast Guard stations of the country.

A big program has been arranged for the opening night consisting of another concert by the Bohemian orchestra.

DR. MARTIN H. HARDIN.

chestra, an entertainment by Miss Stiles, the children's worker, and a lecture by Dr. Martin H. Hardin, one of Chicago's best known public orators, on "America and the World of Tomorrow."

"I am not a peace at any price man," declared Mr. Hardin, whose lecture concerning the (titanic struggle in Europe was declared by William J. Bryan to be "the strongest speech delivered in America on the European situation."

Dr. Hardin heartily supports the president in his stand with Germany and believes that there is no hope of world peace until Germany is brought to her senses.

What is America to play in the present world crisis? What policy is she to stand for after the war closes? Can there be a permanent world peace? Will America democratize Europe, or will Europe militarize America? What lessons has the world war to teach the great republic and what has America to offer the world? These are the pertinent questions. You will hear America moving and be a better patriot for having heard his address.

Dr. Hardin last year lectured on the topic, "Civilization at the Crossroads," speaking to large audiences in 112 cities on one of the western railroad circuits.

YOUNG MEN SEEK NUMBERS

Registrants may secure their new numbers at the following places: District No. 1, at the Shields Clothing store, 120 West Perry street; district No. 2, at city clerk's office in the city hall, at district No. 3, at the office of the East Foundry and Machine company. The complete lists are also on file at the various newspaper offices.

All men will be called upon to furnish 709 men for Uncle Sam's new army. Five hundred and fifty-seven of this number will be called from Fort Wayne. Speculation as to who will be drawn is quite naturally the all absorbing topic at the present time. Of course, there is no way of telling. It is one big lottery. Absolutely no favoritism is to be shown.

There are four boards operating in Allen county, each board consisting of two civilians and one soldier. Those drawn will be required to undergo an examination of their physical fitness. Claims of exemption will not be considered at this time. If the registrant passes the physical examination the matter of exemption will then be taken up.

The parents of the young men to be drafted are perhaps taking more interest in the lottery than are the young men themselves. This does not mean that the young men are not concerned for they certainly are. But the parents are the ones and especially the mothers who are, as a matter of fact, making the biggest sacrifice. There is, therefore, a greater feeling of anxiety in Allen county at the present time than since the drafting days of the civil war and the anxiety is even greater for the reason that there are many more subject to conscription now than then.

Those subject to the draft should not be confused by the numbers on their registration cards. These numbers have nothing to do whatever with the drawing at Washington.

The 709 young men selected from Allen county will go into training at the new cantonment now under course of construction at Louisville. It will take several months to ship the men into full condition for service abroad.

At City Clerk's Office.

An endless chain of young men visited the office of the city clerk Tuesday. At the noon three the office was filled to capacity. The men who have signed up for conscription are anxious to know the numbers which will represent their names in the coming human lottery.

Deputy City Clerk Leroy Swartz was kept in a sweat answering the telephone, which rang almost incessantly Tuesday. To all inquiries about the conscription numbers the clerk explained that the lists were open for inspection and that anxious young men could hunt out their numbers themselves.

The large tables in the office which were formerly used by the conscription clerks were again drawn into service. At the tables were seated the men who craned over the three lists of nearly 3,000 names in each group.

"We are not trying to do anything else but give out the lists and answer the telephone," said Swartz. "Any other plan of action would be useless."

The Ladies of Nooseheart Legion will meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

STATES OUT

necessity for concerted action by the states and the examination of the registrants and their assignment to the army or exemption can proceed in any state without regard to progress made in any other community. The ten states not having completed their preparations for the drawing are: Alabama, Illinois, New York, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

The group includes the states having the largest population and probably the largest population of all ten represents somewhere near half of the population of the entire country. The fact that reports from only 649 additional districts of the 4,559 are missing, however, shows it is well advanced and each has only a few districts behind schedule. The entire list may be completed today.

Silent as to Pudding Charges.

General Crowder declined to make any comment on the statements made yesterday in the senate attacking the fairness of the census bureau population estimates upon which the allotment of quotas under the draft law is based.

Other officials pointed out, however, that the revised estimates of the census bureau were not intended to reflect the actual population of an community. The estimates are prepared with the statement that they are for use in connection with the draft only. They are based upon the registration and represent the distribution over the country of men between the ages fixed in the draft law as liable for military service.

Large figures for many of the states are accounted for by the concentration of men of the draft age there for work in munitions or other plants.

The conference also approved Senator Gore's purchase, lease or operation of coal mines and also his provision for government purchase and sale, to secure reasonable prices of fuel, wheat, flour.

The committee decided not to hold hearings in order that the appropriations may become available as soon as possible. Senate leaders hope to see an agreement to set aside the food bill temporarily tomorrow and pass the aviation measure with brief debate.

RUSSIA HAS NEW CRISIS

Premier Lvov has requested the minister to meet at his private residence when the cause of the dispute will be considered. It is known he will attempt to prevail on them to withdraw their resignations. The split in the ministry occurred last night at a ministerial conference called to consider a report submitted by M. Tereschenko, minister of foreign affairs, and M. Tseretelli, minister of posts and telegraphs, as a result of their negotiations concerning the Ukraine. After the report was read the cabinet ministers took exception to the form of a declaration drawn up by M. Tereschenko and M. Tseretelli, and agreed to the fact that these ministers without the authorization of the government took on themselves to commit the government to a definite policy regarding the Ukraine.

In addition to this cause of complaint, the cabinet ministers criticized the text of the Ukraine declaration, first because it abolishes all power of the temporary government in the Ukraine; second, because it did not specify of what territories the Ukraine consist or make clear how it shall be governed. M. Tereschenko and Tseretelli flatly insisted upon the immediate publication of the declaration, adding that the form might be altered if the sense were kept intact. When the vote was taken the two Lvovs in the cabinet and the socialist declared themselves in favor of the declaration as already drawn without correction or alteration. Opposed by the majority, the cabinet members then resigned.

M. Prokopovich and M. Chomnousky have been appointed ministers of commerce and education respectively.

PLAN TO SETTLE DIFFICULTY.

After taking cognizance of views of M. Tereschenko and M. Tseretelli and of a communication from War Minister Kerensky on the subject, the provisional government decided today on the creation of an executive body to put into execution measures dealing with the administration of Ukraine.

The personnel will be decided on by the government in agreement with the Ukrainians on the basis of equitable representation of other nationalities inhabiting Ukraine. The provisional government will adopt a sympathetic attitude in regard to the elaboration of necessary measures as well as a brilliant question. In order to maintain the combative unity of the army, the government will not incur measures which might injure the military organization and command although it does not object to the creation of army units composed exclusively of Ukrainians, subject to the approval of the war ministry.

PARK BOARD WILL INCREASE SALARIES

Total of $34,000 Will Be Asked for All Expenditures Next Year.

The council committee on fees and salaries of the park board for raising salaries of all office help in connection with city park affairs. The increase asked by the park commissioners will amount to $34,000 a year.

Ten dollars per month advance is asked for Mrs. Baker and Miss Schmidt, clerks in the park board office. If the advance is allowed Mrs. Baker will receive $85 a month and Miss Schmidt $75 per month.

"Both of these women had a chance to leave the city employment, but they stayed on his job because of loyalty to the work," said Col. D. N. Foster, head of the park board, at the Monday afternoon session of the commission.

"Such a stand should be rewarded. They are entitled to a raise the same as the men."

There was no comment upon the matter of an increase for Charles J. Steis, secretary to the board, and Carl J. Getz, city foreman. The discussion will take place before the council committee. Park commissioners favor the allowing of $2,000 for Getz and $1,800 for Steis.

For all expenditures the park board will ask $34,000 next year. It was determined at the weekly session. The amount is $10,000 more than the appropriation granted for this year. Increase is due to repairs needed on the park greenhouses, for boulevard improvements and salary increases.

Action on the matter of providing a seal coating on Rudolph boulevard was rescinded by the board. The majority of the property owners along the boulevard had signed a remonstrance against the improvement. The work is expected to be taken up next year as the board has been given to understand by several property owners that no objection to the paving will be made next summer.

The board decided to order action of clearing Anthony boulevard, from Maumee avenue to Lake avenue, at once. The plat for the Kensington park addition was approved by the board. This city controller will be asked to transfer $1,500 from the general park fund to the pay roll account in order to meet increases in pay asked.

WHEAT FIGURES ARE STEADY WITH MILLERS OFFERING $2.00 AND $2.02.

Potato prices among retailers started the long expected decline Tuesday. Fallings from 50c a peck to 45c, a drop of 10c. Prices are to the effect that more supplies will follow in rapid order. It has been rumored in market circles that a farmer who sells most of his produce in this city was offered a flat price of 25c a peck for his entire crop and was seriously considering the deal.

Wheat is once more steady, with dealers offering $2.00 and $2.02 per bushel for the grain. The figures which have been in effect for the past week were $1.90 and $2.02, but the former figure offered almost no competition to the millers offering over $2 and a change was made accordingly. Very little can be bought just now at any price.

Thirteen loads were weighed at the city scales today, with an advance in hay, corn and oats prices. Eight loads of hay sold at $12.50 per 100 lb. from 50c to $14.00 per bushel.

Three loads of corn sold at 70¢ and two loads of oats brought 72¢ per bushel.

Men of Federalized Militia in New York to Act for Home Defense.

New York, July 17.—Although the New York national guard was wiped out yesterday when about 39,000 state soldiers took their federal oath, guardsmen who were discharged because of family ties were hard at work today preparing for the organization of new guard units for home defense.

The work at the armories here today found medical officers continuing the physical examination of the men while others took their finger prints. Meanwhile equipment was being overhauled and made ready for field service.

Because some of the regulation uniforms, requisitioned from the war department, had not arrived here early today some of the men were still wearing the uniform of the national guard. At division headquarters it was said this would soon be remedied and that more than enough uniforms were on the way to this city.

Owing to this temporary lack of equipment the date for the proposed monster parade of the former guardsmen from this city may be delayed. It was said the date would be set as soon as the mustering in was completed and every man was fully equipped.

The daily output of the twelve British national projectile factories which have, as yet, developed barely one-half of their total capacity, would fill a train one mile long composed of 400 trucks and requiring eight engines to pull it.

NOTICE! Motormen and conductors wanted; steady work. Apply at 124 Holman street.

The prophet Jeremiah was confined in the pillory (Jeremiah xxix, 26), which appears to have been a common mode of punishment in his time.

Fortunately for the hundreds and more hundreds of women of this city who want to see someone can fruits and vegetables according to the easiest, safest and most up-to-date methods, the Scottish Rite Masons have offered their cathedral for the demonstrations to be given for at least two days next week by Miss A. Garvin, expert from Purdue university. The particular days are not yet named but they will appear in the papers in due time for everyone to see so as to be ready to go. This effort to bring the subject of home canning to the people is along the line of patriotic endeavor. It is to insure the people of moderate means as well as the people with plenty of money, vegetables and fruits in their own cellars and storehouses in order that the canning factory products can be sent to people who have no vegetables or fruits to can, even if they have the money to put them up. Just now with garden products at their height, beans, peas, beans, cauliflower, carrots, spinach, seem too plentiful to ever be a scarcity or a price beyond the average to buy. Later there will be lima beans and corn. And there are many fruits yet to come, late berries, apples, peaches, pears, quinces, plums—all of which are easier to keep and more like the fresh to the taste, if put up the new way. It isn't that "mother's way" or "grandmother's way" or "a recipe that never failed" are questioned. It is because the new ways are easier and surer. Besides who wants to belong to the class that can never be taught anything new, and are therefore "caught in the trap of their own habits."

Too Much Devotion to Style Means Waste

By IDAH M'GLONE GIBSON.

Women have been talking a long while about being thinking human creatures, but things have been happening lately which must make the average woman realize she has been going on doing her work or play while taking the gods provide without thinking much about it one way or the other.

Did we think, when the mode veered from leather-covered vanity cases to bead bags, of the amount of work it entailed upon the factories to blow with the wind of fashion?

Not a bit. Most of us gaily threw aside our once prized leather-covered boxes, which looked as though we were lugging our lunches around, and hid ourselves to the counter where the bead bags were sold.

When the whole shopping street of a town blossoms out with women wearing leather belts instead of ribbon sashes, all we say is, "Leather belts are the fashion." We never look back to see the hundreds of men and women who have worked weeks to produce that fashion. To the woman who wears, instead of makes, the factory's product, factories mean nothing.

This fall, however, she will think about these things. There will be a dearth of wool goods. If you are patriotic or poor in purse, your winter suit will probably be of silk instead of wool, and it won't be trimmed with beads. The factories are all commandeered for government work.

A bead-trimming manufacturer said yesterday: "We are not going to have many new things to show this fall, as one of our factories is making helmets, of which we must turn out 750,000 in the next few weeks. Another factory is working on an order for a million hat cords."

These hat cords of different colors which are worn on soldiers' hats to distinguish corps and rank, have prob-

Half-and-Half Sleeve in Style

(BY BETTY BROWN.)

A real novelty of fall fashions is the half-and-half sleeve. The model pictured today shows the upper arm covered with white chiffon and the lower with black. On blue serge, elbow-deep cuffs of white satin are used. Sometimes the top of a sleeve is of chiffon while the cuff and flares is made of satin. In a very charming frock one-half of the sleeve is of all-over lace, the other of finely tucked tulle.

These are hints worth the attention of the girl who would like to freshen up a spring gown for fall service.

ably not elicited one thought from the great army of women anxious to do their bit.

Now these women must remember when they go to buy bead-trimming or bags that the factories have no time for the frivolities of fashion. They are busily engaged in the grim business of preparing our men for the front.

AIR AND SUNSHINE FOR THE HOME ADDS TO JOY OF LIVING

Just now there is a good deal of talk about good and bad housing. This naturally brings up the question: "What is good housing?"

In answer here are the fundamental things that make for good housing. There should be in every home: Space, that is plenty of room in which to work, play and sleep without crowding and without trespassing on the rights of others. Unlimited supply of clean, fresh air to promote bodily health and vigor. Plenty of light and sunshine with clean, attractive surroundings to add to the joy of living.

Thorough drainage, which means freedom from dampness and musty odors. Adequate and decent toilet facilities to insure cleanliness in both person and apparel.

Proper protection from winter cold and summer heat, so a proper indoor temperature may be had all the time. Freedom from nerve-racking noises, especially at night when rest and repose are essential for both health and comfort.

Given housing of this sort the normal person should have but little trouble in keeping healthy and resisting infection. In addition to good housing, good food and good habits are essential to good health.

REFUSES THE PRESIDENCY.

Tien Tsin, July 18.—President Li Yuan Hung, in announcing his resignation, urges the country to support Feng Kwo Chang, vice president, for the presidency. Feng Kwo Chang has refused the position of chief executive.

WILL HONOR LAFAYETTE.

New York, July 18.—A call for the celebration of the birthday of Lafayette on September 6, was issued from here today. Municipalities were asked to co-operate with patriotic societies to do honor to the great soldier.
